INCREASE IN ANNUAL BUDGET

City Department Estimates for 1922 Exceed Expenditures for 1921 With Two Exceptions

Of the 12 departmental estimates of expenditures for 1922, now in the hands of the city auditor, only two, the isolation hospital and moth department, have presented estimates lower in total than last year's expenditures, while one, the fire department, has submitted an estimate that totals $497,365.15, or an increase over the expenditures of 1921 of $122,180.61. The remaining nine estimates, while being in excess of last year's expenditures in every case, nevertheless, are only slightly so in the majority of instances.

Coincident with the arrival of the first batch of estimates, comes Mayor Brown's warning to department heads that all estimates will feel keenly the pinch of the pruning knife. "Department heads may act accordingly," said the mayor today.

Large Increase in Fire Department

Standing out among the estimates submitted to date is that of the fire department. For a new fire system, $50,000 is asked, while the item of new motor apparatus is $20,000. $2500 is asked for automobiles for assistant chiefs and $2000 for a truck for the fire alarm division.

Last year there was expended for wages for regular men in the department the sum of $233,891 and this year's estimate totals $259,004. The salary payroll for captains jumps from $34,839 to $40,942 and for lieutenants and engineers, from $42,816 to $44,493.

COURT ISSUES WARNING TO AUTOMOBILISTS

Judge Thomas J. Enright in district court this morning stated that automobilists, who haven't yet conformed with the law by obtaining their 1922 registration plates will hereafter be haled to court and there convicted as the statute provides. His Honor said he had received a number of complaints to the effect that some motorists were still operating their machines with last year's license numbers. Although he has recommended heretofore that they be given more time in which to secure the new plates the time has come now when no more leniency should be shown.

"They must comply with the law," the judge observed, "and I will see that these alleged violators are brought here and convicted for they have been given every opportunity to comply with the requirements of this state highway commission."

About 225 Emergency Laborers in the Street Department Will Be Laid Off Tomorrow

Approximately 225 emergency laborers in the city street department will be laid off tomorrow noon and their places will not be filled, said Superintendent Henry Doherty today.

These men were taken on during the emergency caused by the storm and tomorrow at noon their five and one-half days of employment terminate. This length of employment is arbitrarily fixed by the civil service commission and the superintendent cannot longer hold them.

Supt. Doherty also announced that wherever an emergency laborer has a city shovel in his possession and said shovel is not turned in at the yard tomorrow noon, the sum of $2.50 will be deducted from that man's pay.

Following tomorrow's lay-off, the department will operate with its regular force of about 300 men, including the men of the sewer department who now are assigned to other work pending the time when new sewer loan may be passed, thus allowing the sewer work to be resumed.

CONSPIRACY TO EXTORT MONEY

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Testimony designed to corroborate previous evidence that District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier was a party to an alleged conspiracy to extort money from Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Emery and Mrs. Jennie S. Chase in 1917, was offered by the government at today's session of Pelletier's trial in the supreme court on charges of misconduct. The charge before the court is the 20th of more than 30 instances of alleged misconduct cited by At-

The Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O.M.I., who for the past few months has been staying at the Immaculate Conception rectory, left last evening for Buffalo, N. Y., where he is to take

Very Rev. Fr. Smith, O.M.I., was for many years pastor of the church of the Sacred Heart in this city, which position he relinquished to become provincial of the Oblate order, in the first American province. He assumes his new post with the best wishes of his Lowell friends.

NEARING CENTURY RUN

Mrs. Tyler Celebrates 99th Birthday at Home in Middlesex Village

Rising shortly after 3 o'clock this morning, Mrs. Mary A. Tyler, who is today celebrating her 99th birthday at her Colonial homestead in Middlesex Village, ate a substantial breakfast, drank a cup of coffee with her daily toast, later walked down stairs unassisted and entered her reception room and sat down in an old-fashioned rocking chair to chat with her first caller of the day, a reporter for The Sun.

The appearance of the rooms where this afternoon the venerable woman of warm heart and cheery smile, is to receive many birthday callers, was most attractive.

"I am ready for the event—I want to meet them all right here," said Mrs. Tyler, as she shook hands and said how glad she was to see anyone on a sunny morning like this. She declared she never felt any happier in her life, and that her appetite for most foods was excellent. She was anticipating a rare dinner today on her birthday, and the housekeeper assured her that one was on the way in the kitchen that might indeed surprise her.

55,000 Garment Workers End Strike

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Fifty-five thousand garment workers of the metropolitan district today resumed work in hundreds of shops which had been closed since November, when the workers struck in protest against the institution of a piecework system. The tieup came to an end when attorneys for the Cloak, Suit & Skirt Manufacturers' Protective association notified the workmen that the shops would reopen today in obedience to an order of the state supreme court. The strikers voted to go back to work.

BULLET-TORN COAT SHOWN

Introduced During Testimony of Medical Examiner at Loud Murder Trial

Witness Gives Details of Examination of Body of Patrolman Preston

CAMBRIDGE, Jan. 17.—The bullet-torn uniform coat worn by Patrolman James A. Preston of Wakefield, when he was shot and killed last April, was introduced as a prosecution exhibit today at the trial of Clarence W. Loud for murder. The coat was introduced during the continued testimony of Medical Examiner George B. Magrath of Suffolk county. The witness gave details of his examination of the body, tracing the course of bullets which he described in the same manner as previous witnesses, except that he expressed belief that one of the bullets had first struck the officer's police badge and, deflected, entered the upper chest. The muzzle of the weapon used, he said, was held inches away from the body on some of the four shots, and several feet away on some of the others.

"WOMEN FIRST" RULE OBSERVED

Boys Waited in Smoke-Filled Peabody School Rooms Until All Girls Leave

275 Pupils Marched Out in 40 Seconds—Fire Caused Loss of $12,000

PEABODY, Jan. 17.—Two hundred and seventy boys and girls, pupils in the Bowditch public grammar school here, marched safely from the building today when fire was discovered coming up through the floor of one of the rooms. The building was emptied in 40 seconds.

Miss Josephine A. Connors, the principal, who sounded the call for fire drill, said after the children were all outside that great praise should be given the boys who carried out the spirit of the "women first" rule and waited in the smoke-filled rooms until every girl had marched out. Six teachers with Miss Connors headed their classes in the march to the street, just as in the weekly fire drill.

The fire burned up between the walls and flames covered the roof when the firemen arrived. The loss was estimated at $12,000. On Oct. 28, 1916, twenty-two lives were lost in St. John's parochial school, a short distance from the scene of today's fire.

ROME, Jan. 17.—(By the Associated Press) Rome outdid itself today in extending a welcome to the American troops who will participate in tomorrow's ceremonies attending the bestowal of the congressional medal of honor upon Italy's unknown soldier. The American composite company from Coblenz, under Major General Henry T. Allen, was greeted on its arrival by the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" from the band of the Royal Carabinieri in their brilliant uniforms, by a picked company of the Grenadiers as the guard of honor, by scores of generals wearing rows of glittering medals, by squadrons of cavalry with their plumes, by a brigade of infantry lining the adjacent square and by throngs of the populace, heartily cheering the arriving Americans.

2000 Miles on Freight to Enter Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Jan. 17.—Frederick R. Wedge, graduate of the prize ring and of the University of Arizona, seeking to get a post-graduate degree from Harvard university in his 40th year, may have made a trip half way across the continent in freight car and caboose for nothing. "Kid" Wedge, as he was known in Wisconsin lumber camps and in boxing circles two decades ago, dropped off a train yesterday after a 2000 mile journey from Arizona to enter the Harvard graduate school of education. Today it was learned that Harvard authorities had been trying to reach him for some time by mail and telegraph, with word that his qualifications for admission were not sufficient.

Woman Said to Have Admitted 13 Breaks

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 17.—Mrs. Katherine Marston, aged 36, mother of five children, was today bound over to superior court under bonds of $1200 on four charges of breaking and entering, one count each for the past four years. Manchester police officials say Mrs. Marston has confessed to 13 breaks. In each instance, she is said to have entered apartments and houses after previously ascertaining that the residents were absent, and to have stolen small sums of money, principally, though at one or two places, she took jewelry or wearing apparel. The police sought her identity for months without success.

American Legion Men Hear Splendid Address by Lowell Priest, Former Chaplain in Canadian Army

More than 400 members of Lowell post, 87, American Legion and about 100 of the Ladies' auxiliary listened to a most inspiring address regarding the war and its aftermath by Rev. J. A. Fortier, O.M.I., former chaplain of the Canadian forces with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, at the regular meeting of the organization in Memorial hall last evening.

Having seen service during the war and for some time after with the Canadian forces, the speaker had plenty of material on which to draw, and most interestingly described his experiences at the front and told of the of the duties performed by chaplains on the field of battle and recounted some of his own interesting experiences. Rev. Fr. Fortier referred to his lengthy service with the Canadian forces and said: "Would you consider 22 months served on the front as sufficient claim to your friendship and to the right to call you dear comrades? Moreover, I am preparing to become an American citizen, if President Harding will have me and the city of Lowell will accept me. Therefore, in that capacity I think it my duty to ask you to remain as loyal and patriotic members of this immense community of American citizens as you were brave soldiers of the American army."

The speaker then touched on the life of a chaplain. After telling some of the things done by the Canadian government immediately after the war for her soldiers, Fr. Fortier spoke in favor of this country doing the same for her warrior sons, outlining how Canada made farm concessions to her service men and how the latter successfully worked them and made of them profitable propositions in less than a year. The speaker thought that the United States government should deed farms to her soldiers in recompense for their great sacrifices of the war, rather than cash rewards, for in the end the occupation of the soil will reap the greater reward.

Following a brief business session conducted by Commander Stephen C. Garrity, the meeting was turned over to Post Chaplain Rev. William A. Mahan, O.M.I., who, with an excellent introductory, presented Fr. Fortier to the gathering of men and women. "My dear comrades," said the speaker, "you have addressed me as chaplain. I wish I could answer you in such a capacity. Major General Seeley, ex-secretary of state of England, and later commanding the British air forces, a very dear and personal friend of mine, commenting upon the presence of chaplains in the army, said that as ministers of God they were the right hand men of the commanding officers, but as soldiers they were worthless." He then went on to tell

A Beauty Specialist, Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

Mrs. M. D. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 4 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. ## "I NEVER FELT SO STRONG IN ALL MY LIFE"

That Is What Mrs. Ruth Edwards, of Boston, Says After Taking Tanlac—Health Completely Restored

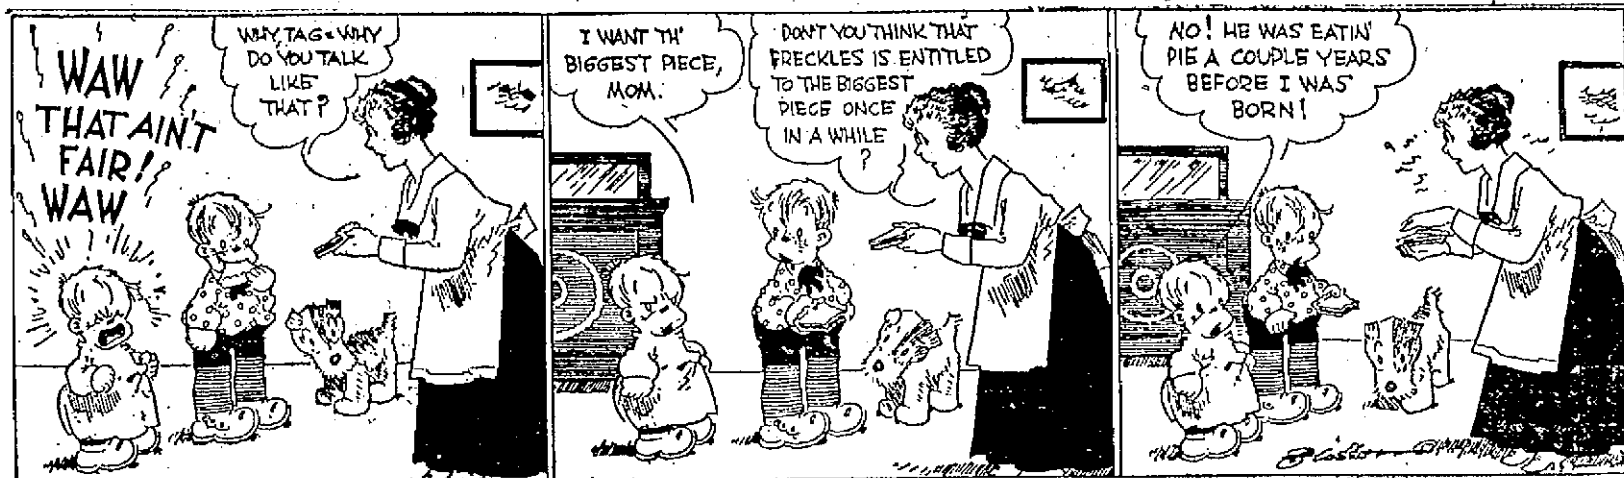

Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Dizzy Spells and Shortness of Breath Are Overcome and She Gained Twelve Pounds

"Well, it seemed as if all the folks in our neighborhood were praising Tanlac, so I started taking it myself, and the results have been astonishing," was the statement of Mrs. Ruth Edwards, 18, Farnell st., Boston, Mass. "Yes, Tanlac certainly has been a blessing to me and I simply can not praise it enough. For six years I suffered continually from dyspepsia and indigestion. Words cannot describe the torture I suffered from the pains in my stomach. The gas used to press up in my chest until I was so short of breath I turned right dizzy. Black spots came before my eyes and I often thought I was going to faint. Many a time I thought, 'Sure I hadn't much longer for this world. I was so nervous I dreaded to go down town by myself, and was actually afraid to try to cross Tremont street in the heavy traffic. I had almost forgotten what a good night's sleep was, and always felt tired and worn out."

"However, I could feel myself improving with every dose of Tanlac I took, and now I am entirely free from dyspepsia and indigestion and have gained 12 pounds in weight. The Tanlac Vegetable Pills rid me of constipation, which had bothered me ever since I can remember. In fact, I can't remember ever feeling as well as I do now. My nerves are so steady and calm that I don't mind crossing the street in the thickest of traffic, and I sleep like a child. Tanlac is worth its weight in gold."

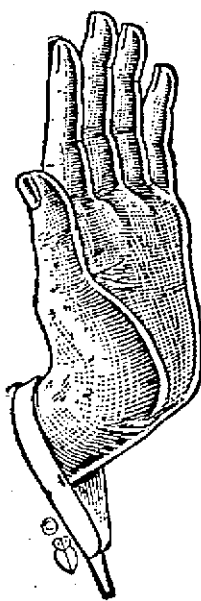

NOTE—Tanlac Vegetable Pills are an essential and vitally important part of the Tanlac treatment. You cannot hope to get the most satisfactory results from Tanlac without first establishing a free and regular movement of the bowels. Tanlac Vegetable Pills are absolutely free from calomel and are sold on a positive guarantee to give satisfaction.

Tanlac and Tanlac Vegetable Pills are sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative; by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; A. D. Fells, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

KIDNAPPED BY AUTO BANDITS

Milkman and Helper Held up
and Robbed of $400 and
Taken Off in Car

Forced at Gunpoint to Abandon
Wagon and Step Into
Auto in Broad Daylight

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Ordered off their wagon and into an automobile and driven to a lonely spot in Arlington, where they were robbed of more than $400 by armed bandits in broad daylight, in the remarkable story told the police by Harry Leeds of 21 Millington street, Dorchester, a driver for D. Whiting & Sons, milk dealers; and his helper, Simon Kominsky of the same address. The latter was allowed to keep $150 when the bandits were told that he had long been out of work.

The robbery as related by the two men was one of the boldest that has taken place during the wave of banditry that has swept New England and occurred at a spot in full view of passing "D" trains on Maiden bridge. Although the police of three cities began an immediate search for the bandits when notified two hours later, no trace of them was found.

FAIRBURN RESTAURANT IS OPEN AGAIN

Having undergone thorough renovation and repair, with the latest and most up-to-date equipment installed, Fairburn's restaurant at 19 Bridge street is once more open to the public. Everything has been so rearranged that there is practically nothing left as a reminder of the old restaurant. An excellent kitchen, with five chefs and an equal number of assistants, provides ample accommodations for the preparation of everything that is served in the spacious new restaurant, where 12 neatly attired waitresses are in constant attendance. Ray Penbody, an experienced restaurateur, is in charge.

The site at 19 Bridge street was originally occupied by the Evans' lunch room, later known as Fox's. The Fairburn company purchased it some years ago and conducted it in the old style until a week ago, when it was closed for alteration and repairs.

COLD SNAP IS HELPING ICE HARVESTERS

The latest cold snap with zero temperatures is helping the ice men as well as the coalmen. Today the big houses on the river above the dam are being filled with splendid ice, and the weather man assures the Daniel Gage ice people that more cold weather is on the way, which will help to keep the ice cutters and "millers" busy without a let-up.

The work will continue the remainder of the week and probably a little longer, as there is plenty of good, thick ice and a lot of it that cannot be stored will be stacked up in the yards and at convenient places on the banks. The temperature this morning was close to zero at the river barns, and northern cities and towns of New England reported 2 and 4 below.

The weather prediction for tonight and tomorrow is rain or snow, with slightly higher temperature. Thursday will be much colder with winds becoming northerly. Indications remain for perfect ice cutting conditions the remainder of the week.

very nearly going to jail, the judge twice stating that he ought to impose a direct sentence, considering the large amount of liquor manufactured, which Viera admitted to the raiding officers. The government, however, felt satisfied with a heavy fine. Federal Officers Shields and Bowers and the local liquor squad, under the direction of Sergt. Winn, raided the defendant's premises late last night. In a large room of the house the officers found a real distillery on a small scale. A 50-gallon still was running full blast, while surrounding it and lined up against the wall were 17 full barrels of mash. Besides this the authorities also seized about 3½ gallons of moonshine and many empty bottles and jars. Sergt. Winn testified that Viera admitted he was selling the liquor at $3.50 a gallon and was turning out about 6 gallons a day. It became known today that yesterday morning, three members of the new liquor squad, Lieut. Palmer and Patrolmen Lynch and Aldrich, made a sensational raid in a near beer saloon in Middlesex street. It was stated by the acting chief, however, that somebody saw the officers coming and just for that they didn't find anything.

Signs of Worms are: Constipation, deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, offensive breath, hard and full stomach with pains, pale face, eyes heavy, short, dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Mrs. H. N. Roberts, 502 Asylum St., Flint, Mich., wrote to Dr. J. F. True & Co.: "My little girl is relieved of her worms." And in a later letter wrote: "Baby is fine and it was your medicine, Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, that helped her."

ONE MONTH IN JAIL FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

James Hamilton, a resident of North Billerica, who is in his 73rd year, was this morning ordered committed by Judge Leggat of the probate court, to the house of correction at East Cambridge for one month for contempt of court. Upon smiling and then turning to Melvin G. Rogers, counsel for the prosecution, said: "You will have to pay my fare to Boston." Mr. Rogers then gave the court officer $1.07 for the traveling expenses of his prisoner.

In imposing sentence, Justice Leggat said: "I think I've put up long enough with this. You evaded every order of this court. You got $15 a week for a long while but you have failed to comply with the order of the court. You have been in this court once a month since I came on the bench. You owe your wife over $600, according to an order from this court that you pay her $4 a week, but she has been good enough to cut that amount down to $200 and to request but $3 a week from you, and still you have refused to make good on the order. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton have been living apart for several years. About a year ago Mr. Hamilton was brought into probate court on a charge of non-support. At that time he was ordered to pay his wife $4 a week, but it seems that he did not comply with the order. For last April he was ordered committed to the house of correction for one month. He served his time, and when he came out he again refused to comply with the order of the court, so stated Mr. Rogers this morning when he informed the court that the defendant had not paid one cent to his wife since last April. Mr. Rogers also brought out that Mr. Hamilton is drawing money every month from a trust fund, and when questioned by the court the defendant admitted receiving between $50 and $100 a year from the said fund, but he needed all that money to live. Upon leaving the courtroom Mr. Hamilton invited Mr. Rogers to come in and see him at East Cambridge.

Keep Out of Car Track!

To use beside the rails, are to be complained of to the police and warrants issued for their arrest if they persist in blocking traffic.

Today officials of the Eastern Massachusetts street railways decided to inaugurate a vigorous campaign against the traffic blockers. Scores of complaints have been sent to headquarters during the past few weeks about tardy car service and failure of the company to keep its cars on schedule on several important lines in the city limits. There have been numerous complaints from Centralville patrons, as well as patrons of cars out on Middlesex and Gorham streets.

The company declares that 29 so-called tardy cars out of every 100 are due solely to street blockades caused by wagons or trucks getting in the car tracks and remaining there an unnecessary length of time.

Several cases have just been reported where drivers of auto trucks have refused to "get out of the way" until they apparently felt like doing it. One car due to make a trip to Merrimack square in less than 10 minutes from a short distance away was more than half an hour off schedule. Passengers have been complaining that the cars are "never on time," but the company can prove that nearly all the serious delays are caused by track blockades, the result of auto drivers declining to make way for the electric.

This morning, Supt. Whalen had a typical case reported to him. A car returning on the Lakeview line was delayed all the way from Cornhill to Allen avenue by a light auto truck getting the rails ahead and remaining there. There was ample room for the auto driver to use the road on the side of the rails, but he simply faced it at the motorist's head and kept the car behind until he had to leave the track to get to another street.

Numerous cases of this deliberate blocking of streets by auto drivers have been reported during the past week and yesterday on Middlesex and Gorham streets.

The police were notified today that the company will prosecute all cases where blockades are caused deliberately. Allowance will be given by the inspectors and motormen for autoists unable to "swing out" of the rails owing to piles of snow or other conditions preventing prompt departure on approach of the electric, but the inspector now watching for the trouble-making autoists and drivers of delivery wagons in general, will report all cases and secure names where deliberate attempts are made to hold up car service.

Immediate prosecutions will be started by the street railway company.

The inspectors started to work this morning, and they will be on duty in various parts of the city from now on for an indefinite period.

Thousands of men and women have found relief from various digestive disturbances by eating Fleischmann's Yeast.

It is human nature to want to find out "why." So far as science can tell us this is the reason:

Fleischmann's Yeast is a food abundant in certain elements which are necessary to health and life itself. It promotes the flow of bile and of pancreatic juice. It has a remarkably beneficial effect on the whole digestive process. It cleans a coated tongue.

Try Fleischmann's fresh yeast in orange juice or in milk. Men like it in milk shakes and malted milks. Women like it spread on bread or crackers.

Keep your digestion in the pink of condition and your tongue clean and healthy by eating 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast fresh every day before or between meals. ## Sealdsweet Grapefruit and Oranges

In buying grapefruit and oranges, remember that true beauty is more than skin deep. The real merit of these citrus fruits is in the juice and good looks do not signify juiciness.

Grapefruit or oranges that are russet or golden will be found just as juicy and sweet as fruits which are bright on the outside. Whatever the color, tree-ripened Sealdsweet grapefruit and oranges are good to eat.

For Inner Goodness That Will Satisfy

Sealdsweet grapefruit and oranges may be depended upon. This inner goodness is the first aim of the co-operating growers who market their fruit through the Florida Citrus Exchange.

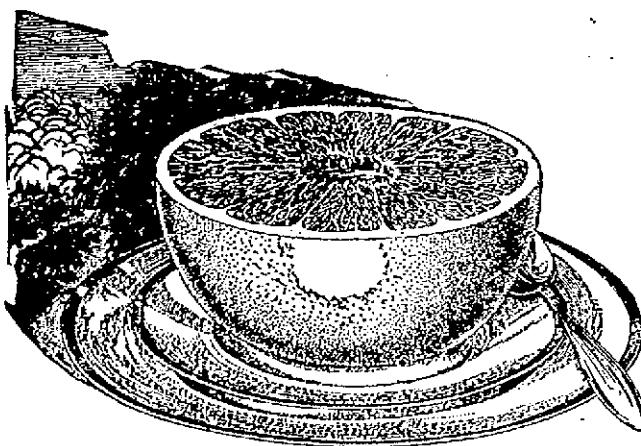

The same trees produce grapefruit and oranges that vary in outer appearance from bright and golden to russet, but are equally good inside. Buy for juiciness and sweetness rather than by color, using the Sealdsweet trade-mark as your guide.

Rich in Food and Health Values

The value of grapefruit and oranges, in calories or fuel units of food, has been amply demonstrated by medical and scientific research. Now science has found these fruits equally rich in vitamins, the food elements essential to the perpetuation of life; vitamins making other food constituents available to the system.

It is the juice of grapefruit and oranges that contains the calories and the vitamins. Sealdsweet Florida fruits are heavy with juice, indicated by weight, hence their usefulness as food and for maintaining health.

The qualifications for entrance were set forth, in part, by President Hopkins as follows: "On a basis of a combined set of qualifications which involve scholastic requirements such as are required in all eastern colleges, supplemented by geographical distribution, distribution by social groups and the vocational background of parents, the class of 500 entering Dartmouth next fall will be picked from four or five thousand applications." President Hopkins also said that evidences of outstanding character will be taken into consideration.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

AT F. KENNEDY'S THEATRE

Mystic Clayton, the master mentalist, who answers all questions, is the headliner at Keith's theatre this week. With an incense laden atmosphere, redolent of the east, servants attired in the luscious garments of the Orient, he stands before his audience and reads the answer to all matters that perplex in the crowd, held in his right hand. He also invites all who have questions of a more intimate nature to leave them at the box office to answer one and all. Sally Clark, "The Little Girl from Iowa," is extremely artistic in her buffoonery and versatile as well. The time occupied by her act is not long enough, judging by her reception yesterday. Thomas J. Ryan & Co., in the new "Mag. Haggerty's Reception," present an excellent comedy playlet. Cecile Holmes and Willie Crowley assist Mr. Ryan and give excellent support for the famous Irish comedian. Miss Holmes plays the role of his daughter, excellently and Mr. Crowley is a comic servant. Mr. Ryan's dancing and a rather fast poker game are also featured, together with some witty dialogue. Helen Hamilton and Jack Barnes in their 1921 version of "Just Fun," are well equipped with a variety of acts over a talking and singing act in first class fashion. Paul Murray and Gladys Gerlach, in "Studying Stars," give a number of excellent impersonations, musical comedy stars and sing the latest hits. Miss Gerlach is an excep-

HALLO THEATRE

Reckless, rough, and a masterful production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," established himself supreme among directors. His masterful production introduced Balzac's famous novel, "Eugene Grandet," which is fitted for the silver screen under the name "The Quaking Power." This well known spectacle opened a three-day engagement at the Hallo theatre yesterday afternoon and delighted a very large audience by its glimpses into the French period during the time of the well known author.

Coupled with a charming story to start from, Mr. Ingram has been doubly successful in securing for the leading parts of this new production, Rudolph Valentino, leading star of "The Sheik," and also Alice Terry, charming star of "The Four Horsemen." These two famous stars lead a heels over anybody else in the great east, although there are other distinguished players such as Edward Connelley, Edna Dunbar, George Adkins, William Lee Hall, Mary Hearn and Ralph Lewis, the latter remembered as the stone man in "The Birth of a Nation."

The story of "Eugene Grandet," as Balzac wrote it, deals with a little French town of Noyant, in which the Grandet family have lived for generations and in a heated house in the little French provincial town. A desperate color of riches rules their existence, although Grandet is a miser. The richest man in the entire province, with a fortune accumulated from years of shrewd realty transactions and wine trading, Grandet is a miser, a deeply religious woman, ready to submit to the regime of mean poverty and their daughter, Eugenie, knows no other life. Every son is doted with passionate care by the miserly father. Unknown to herself, Eugenie is an heiress, whose fortune will eventually run into millions, for she is not really the daughter of the miserly old father but, rather, the daughter of his first husband. The girl's wealth attracts many suitors, the most eligible of which seems to be Cruchot de Bonfons, a minor magistrate of the city. The girl's brother is Alphonse des Grezines, son of a local banker.

Mutual scheming between this pair is interrupted by the arrival of Eugenie's nephew, Charles, a Parisian dandy, whose youthful smartness and good looks arouse the tender love of Eugenie. Charles brings a letter from his father to old Grandet—a letter in which the father announces he is committing suicide because of his inability to make his son's means. Consequently the dandy, his son is thrown upon the Noyant household.

In brief space the old miser succeeds in making the young nephew off to Martinique and hides the love letters that the daughter receives from him. An extravagant enmeshment of the pair and years of misunderstanding follow. The old man finally dies under the weight of his riches and the daughter becomes sole heir to the property and millions. She, believing that the former lover is faithless, is about to become the wife of the magistrate when the former dandy turns up a successful man, still single and longing for her. A fitting climax brings about the closing scenes and drops the curtain on a really delightful story of suffering and love.

The other attractions on the Hallo program include a thrilling western production, also a snappy comedy, a Ford Educational and the Kinograms.

STRAND THEATRE

Two exceptionally good pictures are being shown at the Strand theatre this week. They are "Camille," a masterpiece from the pen of Alexandre Dumas, Jr., which has been made over for the screen, and "Confession," a most thrilling picture, which unfolds a very interesting story of the northwest wilderness. In "Camille," the great Russian artist, Nalova, is being featured in the stellar role, while Priscilla Dean, a local favorite, is being starred in "Confession."

"Camille" is a story that has been translated in several languages and one that has been read in every part of the world. It deals with a woman of the underworld, who becomes infatuated with a young law student in Paris. The young man abandons his career in order to devote all his attentions to the woman he loves, but the latter, after learning of her lov-

MELANCHOLY DUE TO THIN BLOOD

Nurse Followed Doctor's Advice and Complete Recovery Resulted

A decline in the general health, especially when the blood is thin, often produces a condition of melancholia in which the patient is melancholy and dissatisfied, a condition that makes recovery more difficult. The remedy is to build up the blood as is shown in the case of a former nurse in Portland who followed her physician's advice and was restored to health.

"I was melancholy and uneasy," says Mrs. Annie K. Laughton of No. 19 Smith street, Portland, Me., referring to the breakdown in health from which she has recently recovered. "I believe the decline in my general health was due to overwork," she continued, "and I am sure that my blood was thin. I was tired all the time and could not seem to get over that worn, dragging feeling. My appetite was nearly gone and nothing tasted good. My sleep was disturbed and did not refresh me."

hibited while playing the part of Jesse Strong.

As for the male members Harry Hollingsworth headed the list, but while he was not too large, Vincent Dennis, Katman Matas and Louis Albion made the appreciative audience think they were the only ones in the play. Where fun is concerned this trio was a riot and demonstrated they are as good a comedy three as walks the boards. Both Seth Arnold and William Worawick had really difficult parts but carried them off to perfection. The latter again proved his worth as a character man by playing both a brew-pawn-shop owner and a detective. Robert Fay was cast in a minor role last night, but did everything expected of him.

The play opens with a prologue in which Mr. Hollingsworth, as "Pete," is shown in a pawnshop getting a suit of clothes. He has just been released from Sing Sing prison after "doing" a year for a robbery he never committed, the facts of which are later brought out.

He meets his former prison pals Mugsy (Mr. Dennis) and Gilly (Mr. Matas) and the three are going to hit the straight and narrow. Here the prologue ends.

The first act is laid in Mrs. Bascom's kitchen where most of the characters are introduced. "Pete" turns out to be Joe Bascom, who left home 10 years before. He returns with a present for his mother (Mrs. Bascom) just in time to prevent Deacon Tillinger (Mr. Arnold) from completing a suit of clothes. His mother would lose her home and peach orchard. Mugsy and Gilly get lost and appear on the scene. The three pals enter into a heart of the two former thieves; how Joe and Elsie are married; how Deacon Tillinger is brought over the right side as the peach business is made a success, all serve as actions to keep the audience on edge until the final curtain is run down on a very clever electrical effect, showing an auto going over the hills to a house in the distance from which lights are flashed and extinguished as the occupants prepare to retire. The cast is as follows: William Worawick, Joe Bascom, (Peter Turner), Harry Hollingsworth, Vincent Dennis, Gilly, Katman Matas, Ruth Fielding, Jessie Strong, Nan Crawford, Sam Martin, Anna Layng, Deacon Tillinger, Seth Arnold, Lester Morgan, Robert Fay, Elsie Tillinger, Maygorita Fields, Tom Callahan, William Worawick.

Swan, the gentleman of noble Chinese birth. As for the scene of the play, one needs naturally think of the title. The particular part of the slums with which "Dream Street" deals consists of two or three streets, narrow and dirty, a waterfront theatre, a gambling den, a pawn-broker's shop, the room occupied by Gypsy and that of the two brothers and the home of a wily Oriental, Sway Swan.

There is the street fiddler, whose degrading tune leads to the populace of the "Dream Street" section to sin, furnishing the symbol of temptation, and there is Gypsy, the little dancer of the neighborhood. On the other hand, symbolizing conscience and good, there is the street preacher, who endeavors to lead the populace along the path of righteousness.

Leading among the activities of "Dream Street" one sees the two McFadden brothers, Spike and Billie, vibrating like a clock-pendulum between the forces of the Fiddler of Bell and the Preacher of Good. The story that reveals their rising and falling in their pursuit of happiness is interestingly told with Gypsy Fair shining like a bright star throughout. The second big feature for the first part of the week at this popular amusement center is another thrilling picture, "Tricked," starring Irving Cummings, the noted star. "Tricked" is a dramatic story of the Great Northwest which is bound to please the audience. The picture is a masterpiece of the drama and is a must for all who are interested in the life of a man who was a slave in the South and a free man in the North.

CADET OFFICERS'

ANNUAL PARTY

The annual party of the O.M.I. Cadet officers will assume a new feature this year. A postal has been mailed to every obtainable address of former cadets, reading: "Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight! Make me boy again just for tonight!" The "night" is Thursday, Jan. 19, at the place. The occasion is the reunion of former cadets and lady friends.

Since 1904 the cadets have been growing into the life of the community. The organization points with pride to its illustrious honor roll. Over 1200 served in every branch of the army and navy during the world war. They were prominent in the air, on land and under the waters.

Local athletic history would be only half written without the records of the achievements of the wearers of the White and Blue along all lines of sport. A good proportion of the musicians in the local orchestras caught the har-

It doesn't matter whether you are twenty or fifty if you find that your digestion organs resent what you eat, your heart palpitates on the slightest exertion, your back aches after a day's work, you need a good tonic, kidney and liver regulator, this you will find in SEVEN BARKS, the old fashioned root and herb remedy that our parents and grandparents used to keep their families rugged and well.

Balzac, Hugo, Ibsen and Sudermann, Screen Authors

MARION DAVIES

ROBERT C. BRUCE

BY JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(U.S. Ingram) is to make a special production of Victor Hugo's "Tollers of the Sea." It has not yet been determined whether it will be made here or abroad.

Ingram demonstrated his ability with "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "The Conquering Power." He has just completed "The Prisoner of Zenda," Hugo, Balzac and Ibsen—the classic element in this group of authors.

Nazimova has completed "A Doll's House" and is to do "Regina." They are the works of Ibsen and Sudermann.

The fact that works of these five authors are being converted to the screen seems to be answer sufficient to those who say there is no serious story merit in American films.

Censorship and Art

The current issue of the Nation contains editorial comment on the effect of censorship on the stage. It might as readily pertain to the screen.

"A stage that promises to keep clean and refined in the sense attributed to those words by the respectable majority of any moment in history is a stage that must avoid the new, close its doors to genius, deny the creative spirit and league itself on principle with rigidity and spiritual sloth," the writer declares.

"There is a public that wants Shakespeare expurgated, that still thinks Ibsen dangerously subversive, the great Russians dangerously depressing and the great Germans dangerously funny. There is the enormous public that wants nothing but the cheerful and refined, that mistakes art for nothing syrup."

"To silence the arts at all is to be in danger of silencing them altogether."

The one-hundredth scenic picture made by Robert C. Bruce was recently released by Educational. Bruce has made scenes in many parts of the world. He recently completed a series in the Rockies of the northwest and is now in New York. "I have found in the United States as beautiful scenery as can be found anywhere," Bruce told me. "And it is as little known." Which is just another sermon on the familiar topic, "See America First."

At Studio Kerkhofs
Charles Hutchison's next serial is to be titled "Go-Get-Em Hutch." George Fitzmaurice will film exterior of his next picture in Egypt. Marguerite Marsh will be Dustin Farnum's leading lady in his next. J. Gordon Edwards is cutting 125,000 feet of film he took for "Nero" to exhibition length.

Gloria Swanson will be starred in a film version of "The Love Dream," a musical comedy.

The Vitaphone production of "The Little Minister," starring Alice Calhoun, played in 116 theatres in New York city in one week.

Judge J. V. Summerfield of the Los Angeles domestic relations court collaborated on the scenario of "Domestic Relations," Katherine MacDonald's next film.

DISABLED VETERANS

Delegates to Washington Conference to be elected at Meeting of Disabled American War Veterans

Delegates to the national conference at Washington, Feb. 1, 2 and 3, will be elected at tonight's session of Lowell chapter, 5, Disabled American Veterans of the world war to be held in Memorial hall this evening.

Officers for the present year will also be nominated at tonight's session, while plans for a smoker on election night, the first Tuesday of February, will be discussed. All in all, this meeting should draw a 100 percent attendance considering the amount of important business that is to be taken up.

ANNUAL TOWN MEETING

Phillips' annual town meeting will be held Feb. 11, starting at 10 a. m. The polls may be open until 6 o'clock.

The 1922 warrant contains 37 articles, most of them sure to bring out a large attendance. As usual, the distributions of money for roads and bridges and other town-improvements will be subjects for debate. The Ladies of the G.A.R. are planning to provide dinners for the voters.

Washington monument, 555 feet high, is the tallest in the world.

May Bar Exportation of Quail

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 17.—Exportation of the carcasses of quail may be restricted by the minister of agriculture, as the result of protests from American game protective organizations, calling attention to the fact that 60,000 of the birds were received in New York recently. It was declared that continued slaughter of the birds might cause their extinction. The quail abound in the pampas, where they are hunted and killed with long whips, the hunters in many cases riding the birds down with horses.

Thieves Extend Operations in Germany

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—Sneak thieves, who have been active in the central section of Berlin nightly for a long time, have extended their operations into every suburb of the city, and have engaged in many battles with the police. They have carried off property of all kinds, even board fences, doors of houses, windows from closed dwellings and benches and chairs from the city parks. Scores of persons have reported the theft of chickens, pigs, goats, sheep, geese, ducks and doves. The increase in crime here is attributed by the police to the cold weather and the shortage of fuel and food.

Gas Fumes Cause Death of Boston Woman

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Gas fumes caused the death of Miss Ethel W. Mountain and drove nine families from their apartments on Hemenway street in the Back Bay district today. The gas was said to have leaked into the apartment house from a main in the basement. A newspaperman, returning home in the early morning, found the house filled with the fumes. All the occupants but Miss Mountain responded to the alarm. She was employed as a bookkeeper in an insurance office. A sister, Miss Lelia Mountain, lives in Lynn.

Workers' International Conference

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 17.—Former Minister Stauning, on behalf of the Danish trade unionists, has telegraphed to Arthur Henderson and Ramsay MacDonald, British labor leaders, a request that a workers' international conference be called before the Geneva economic conference is held.

German Magnate to Expand in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 17.—Hugo Stinnes, the German industrial magnate, is believed to be planning to combine and expand his multiple interests in Argentina. Articles for the incorporation of the Sociedad Anonima Hugo Stinnes under the Argentine laws, have been submitted to the government authorities it is learned. The Stinnes interests include the development of petroleum and agricultural lands, lumber enterprises and importing organizations co-operating with the Stinnes' steamship lines and factories in Germany under the same management. Stinnes' wife was a Uruguayan and their daughter was born in Montevideo.

SWIG'S SON-IN-LAW HELD

Arrested in Boston on Charge of Receiving Bonds Stolen in Big Mail Robbery

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Through the arrest of Benjamin Greenberg of Fall River on a charge of receiving stolen bonds the police said they hoped to locate in various Massachusetts cities bonds amounting to more than $100,000 that were part of the loot of a $250,000 mail robbery in Los Angeles last March.

Greenberg was arrested in the financial district while trying to negotiate a loan on two $1000 bonds which the police said had been identified as having been stolen in Los Angeles. They said he admitted having borrowed $4000 from a national bank in this city on bonds for $5000. Bonds to the value of $10,000 alleged to have been stolen at Los Angeles have been located at various other local banks according to the police. Greenberg was held in $25,000 bonds for a hearing today.

Greenberg is a son-in-law of Simon Swig, who was vice president of the Tremont Trust Co., one of the Boston banks closed by the bank commissioners last year. His arrest is the third transcontinental echo of the daring hold-up of a mail truck 15 miles from Los Angeles by three armed and masked men, when 900 pieces of mail were taken. In November last, Bert R. Chapman of East Boston was arrested in New York as he was about to sail for Europe. He was brought back to Boston on charges of having stolen bonds from the Los Angeles robbery in his possession and is now awaiting action by the federal grand jury. Charles Solomon of Boston was also arrested on the same charge but was later released.

When Greenberg was taken into custody he had in his possession the police said, two Baltimore & Ohio railroad $1000 bonds, upon which he was trying to negotiate a loan of $1400. The police claim these bonds numbered 2187 and 2188, are listed as among those stolen at Los Angeles. A default warrant dated 1917 was issued pending against Greenberg as a result of charges of larceny of $393 in connection with his activities as agent for a New York "suit club" which sold tickets entitling holders of certain numbers to suits of clothes. He was given a suspended sentence at the time—promising to make restitution. He was held in $1500 in connection with this case in the municipal court late yesterday and then was turned over to the federal authorities.

On the charge of receiving and having in his possession the two Baltimore & Ohio railroad bonds he was held in $25,000 and taken to the East Cambridge jail, to await arraignment before a federal commissioner today. The police refuse to say whether Greenberg had disclosed where he got the stolen Los Angeles bonds. State Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen said he could not make a statement until he had the full police report before him.

HELP YOUR KIDNEYS FIGHT THAT COLD

Winter Colds and Chills Weaken the Kidneys and Are the Direct Cause of Many Serious Kidney Disorders.

Is winter-time your backache-time? Does every cold, chill or attack of grip leave you lame, aching and all worn out? Does your back throb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going another day?

Then look to your kidneys! Grip, colds and chills throw a heavy strain on the kidneys. They overload the blood with poisons and impurities that the kidneys have to filter off. The kidneys weaken under this rush of new work; become congested and inflamed. It's little wonder then, that every cold finds you suffering with torturing backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

But don't worry! Simply realize that your kidneys are overworked at such times and need assistance. Get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills today and give your weakened kidneys the help they need. Assist them also by drinking pure water freely, eating lightly, and getting plenty of fresh air and rest. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"USE DOAN'S," SAY THESE LOWELL FOLKS:

GEO. A. DICKEY, City Fireman
11 Haverhill St., Sayre
"I had severe pains in my back and was so sore and stiff I could hardly bend. If I took cold the trouble was worse. My kidneys acted so freely. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they regulated my kidneys and my back became strong and well." (Statement given May 4, 1917.)
Over four years later, or on Nov. 14, 1921, Mr. Dickey added: "Doan's Kidney Pills have kept my kidneys in fine condition and I am glad to recommend them at every opportunity."

MRS. ORRIN ALLEN
8 Nottingham St., Sayre
"When I caught cold it settled on my kidneys and caused me to suffer from kidney complaint. My back was lame and sore and I felt out of sorts and run-down. My kidneys acted irregularly and I used Doan's Kidney Pills bought at Green's Drug Store for these attacks. They rid me of the backache and my kidneys acted properly. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

Naphtha Blew up Causing Fire—Mate Claspng Bride in Arms Jumped Overboard

Sanalt Relieved Awful Suffering from Sleeplessness

Any one who has suffered from insomnia, or sleeplessness, knows what intense agony there is for one who remains awake during the darkness and stillness of the night. Very often people who are afflicted by sleeplessness take narcotic drugs or stimulants, to secure only temporary relief, when they should find the cause of the sleeplessness and remove it.

One cannot expect to sleep peacefully when the stomach is distended by gas; the temperature is kept at fever heat through constipation, or nervousness as resulting from weak, watery blood.

Mrs. Sadie E. Welch, of 1705 Elm St., Manchester, N. H., says:

"I was suffering terribly from insomnia. Medicine the doctor gave me only made me sleep a little while at a time, and gave me no real relief. When a friend recommended Sanalt, I did not see how it would help me, until it was called to my attention that I was suffering from stomach trouble, and was very much constipated. So I was induced to try it. Before I had taken a full bottle, the constipation had passed; my stomach seemed all right, and although it at first rather surprised me to be able to sleep so well, I soon realized Sanalt had removed the troubles that kept me awake. As soon as I was again able to sleep I became much less nervous, and my appetite very rapidly improved. So I feel an everlasting debt of gratitude for Sanalt, and cannot praise it enough.

This is a good example of the necessity of people who are suffering trying to remove the cause, rather than the effect. There is only one way to MAKE a person sleep, and that is by drugging them, and of course if the sleeplessness is from a purely nervous trouble, from worry, or overwork, Sanalt alone will not relieve it, but in many cases sleeplessness comes from some trouble with stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, or blood, and for such suffers from the terror of insomnia, there is nothing better than Sanalt.

All obliging druggists sell Sanalt.

Ten survivors of the crew were landed at Lowestoft, by a trawler late this afternoon.

Details of the disaster as related by the captain of the Vesta are to the effect that during heavy weather Sunday night the deck cargo of the vessel, consisting largely of naphtha, shifted. An explosion occurred and a few minutes later the whole vessel was in flames, with the exception of the space near the bridge where the crew huddled for safety.

A boat was lowered, but it was engulfed in the heavy seas and its three occupants were drowned. The mate, claspng his newly married wife in his arms, jumped overboard. Both perished. Others of the ship's company also plunged into the sea from the now fiercely burning vessel only to sink beneath the waves. Finally only the captain and nine men were left on board. They were rescued after great difficulty by a trawler after six hours' work and when they had almost abandoned hope. Those rescued had been scorched by the flames and partially asphyxiated by the naphtha fumes.

LOWELL TOURISTS IN SUNNY FLORIDA

(Special to The Sun)
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 17.—Lowell's winter colony of tourists in St. Petersburg, Fla., was increased this week with the arrival of 11 who will spend the season here.

Mr. and Mrs. Nobel H. Chaston of 55 Highland avenue, are spending the winter in the "Sunshine City" and are located at 144 Twenty-third avenue, n.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nickerson of Lowell, are recent arrivals.

Floyd H. Foy of 114 Wentworth avenue, is stopping at the Hotel Hampton.

Dr. and Mrs. G. M. Randall of Lowell are guests of the Hotel Central.

Mrs. Frank A. Russell of 27 Royal street, is at 108 Sixth st. n.

A. Burgess of 685 Andover street, is making his first visit here and is located at 742 Seventh avenue, n.

In direct contrast with the inclement weather prevailing in the northern states, Lowell tourists are enjoying a warm and sunny winter climate here, with a daily average temperature of 74 degrees. The sun has been shining every day without an exception since early yesterday.

Bathing beaches surrounding St. Petersburg are filled with bathers sporting in the warm waters of both Tampa Bay and the Gulf of Mexico.

CHILMSFORD WATER DISTRICT
Members of the Chelmsford water district held their annual meeting last evening with Walter Perham acting as moderator. Reports of the various departments were heard and Thomas H. Vennam, who a short time ago was appointed by the board to fill the unexpired term of Herbert F. Whipple as auditor, was confirmed. C. George Armstrong was re-elected a member of the board for three years, while W. A. Parkhurst was re-elected clerk for one year. The board was authorized to borrow not more than $12,000 in anticipation of taxes.

Very successful was the presentation of "The Time of His Life" which was well presented last night by the senior class of the North Chelmsford high school. The parts were well sustained and the audience enjoyed it thoroughly. Those who figured in the cast were Lewis Felch, Elwyn McMaster, Ida Fagunson, Anna Monahan, Gerald Miller, Catherine McPhillips, Harold Boyd, Elmer Petrie and Leo McMilleney. During the evening concert numbers were given by the high school orchestra. The ushers were Ethel Carlson, Mary Dunigan, Helen Murphy, Olga Peterson, Morris Stanley, Kenneth Byam and William Hehir.

Prevent Children's Cold Troubles

When Kiddies Come In Wet and "Sniffling," Apply Vicks Over Throat and Chest to Keep Off a Cold

CHILDREN, as modern mothers know, should play outdoors daily. Colds result. How to treat colds without inward dosing, so disturbing to little stomachs, has been a problem.

Vicks answers this need. Applied externally, it can be used freely and often. Daytimes, the kiddies can continue their outdoor fun. Nighttimes, the windows can be opened wide, for, if the bed clothes are left loose about the child's neck, Vicks healing vapors will be inhaled until morning.

This direct treatment usually averts spasmodic croup, and if an attack does come on unexpectedly, the use of Vicks as directed frequently brings relief in 15 minutes.

Good for Grown-ups, Too

Vicks is effective in the same way for all the cold troubles of the family, grown-ups as well as kiddies—for head colds, catarrh and asthma, deep chest colds, bronchitis, incipient pneumonia, tonsillitis, sore throat and "grippy" colds. Its penetrative and rubefacient action makes it useful for dozens of daily ills, such as bruises, burns, cuts, stings, and itching skin troubles.

The DIRECT Treatment for All Cold Troubles
ABSORBED, like a liniment, and, at the same time.
INHALED as a vapor, Vicks reaches immediately the congested air passages. Vicks doesn't relieve every case. No remedy can do that. But it is successful in such a large percentage of cold troubles—from head colds and sore throat down to bronchitis or deep chest colds—that we have been able for years to make the following offer:

VICKS STANDING OFFER
Buy either the 35¢, 75¢ or $1.50 size. Use all or part of it. If you are not delighted with the results, mail us the top of the carton and the purchase price will be cheerfully refunded. Or, if you wish to try Vicks before you buy, mail the coupon below for a free sample.

How Vicks Should Be Used
For Spasmodic Croup, Children's Colds—Rub Vicks over the throat and chest until the difficult breathing is relieved, then spread on thickly and cover with a hot flannel cloth. One application at bed time usually prevents a night attack of croup.

For Deep Chest Colds, Sore Throat, Tonsillitis, Bronchitis, Coughs—Vicks should be applied over the throat and chest—if necessary, first using hot, wet cloths to open the pores of the skin—then rubbed in well until the skin is red; spread on thickly and covered with one or two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. If the cough is annoying, a small piece the size of a pea can be swallowed every few hours.

For Head Colds, Asthma, Catarrh, Hay Fever—Vicks should be melted in a spoon and the vapors inhaled, or a little can be applied up the nostrils and snuffed up the head.

Used as a Liniment, Poultice or Plaster—On account of its penetrative and rubefacient effect on the skin, Vicks has been found excellent for many minor ailments, such as Bites, Boils, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Frost bite, Itchings, Muscular Soreness, Poison Ivy, Sunburn, Headache and Sore Calloused Feet.

DON'T DOSE
Nothing is more delicate than a child's digestion. Wise physicians will tell you that much more harm has been done by indiscriminate dosing by anxious mothers than if nature had been left free to take its course.

Fresh air day and night and plenty of exercise, even in the winter, lay the foundations for sturdy health in later life.

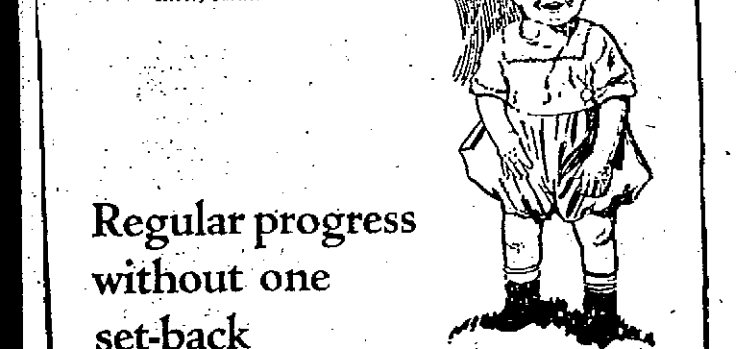

Send this coupon to the Vick Chemical Company, Greensboro, N.C. A 4-oz. trial tin of Vicks will be mailed you promptly, sufficient to test the efficacy of its vapors by melting in a spoon, as shown in the illustration to the left.

Regular progress without one set-back
COULD any mother ask more for her baby than steady normal progress right through the critical period of infancy?
Robert Beard's mother thinks not, for she has had that happy experience with her little son. Robert "never has had a sick day" she says, in spite of "the intense heat" of last summer.

Robert has been fed on Borden's Eagle Brand Milk practically all of his life—and has thrived steadily. Thousands of other children healthy at birth, have developed into sturdy youngsters on Eagle Brand. Thousands more who were weak, undernourished, puny, have grown healthy and strong on it too. Doctors recommend it in stubborn feeding cases—it is so easily digested.

Don't experiment with foods of which you are doubtful. Borden's Eagle Brand Milk has been the standard baby food for three generations. For it is just pure milk and sugar—the natural food when mother's milk fails.

SAVE THE FEDERAL RESERVE

A movement is now on foot at Washington and largely over the western states to secure the appointment of a representative of the farming interests of the country upon the Federal Reserve board. This movement has been taken up by what is known as the Agricultural bloc for the purpose of securing from the Federal Reserve board long time loans for farmers. With this end in view, great pressure is being brought to bear upon President Harding to appoint a farmer to the Federal Reserve board. The president has already declared that he will oppose the proposition and the advisory council of the board has come out with a strong protest against any interference with the government of the system that would place it under political control and destroy its general usefulness and its ability to carry out the purposes for which it was established.

The Federal Reserve board has carried this country through the difficult ordeal of the war without a pause; and but for it we should probably have had one of the worst panics ever experienced by the nation. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that an institution that has given such stability and elasticity to our currency, shall be maintained and upheld without any interference from the political or other blocs that would endeavor to divert it from its main purpose and use it for their own special benefit.

It must be evident that if the funds of the Federal Reserve board were held frozen in long time loans to farmers it could not come to the assistance of financial institutions as it has done when they were threatened with disaster, although perfectly solvent but unable to meet the demands made upon them in an emergency.

CHARTER AMENDMENTS

Measures are now before the legislature calling for certain changes in the charter. One of these is by Rep. Henry J. Allen, which provides that the city shall have the power to fix the hours during which the polls shall be open for the primaries. The charter provides that the polls shall open at noon, which, of course, is a mistake as no one is realized in the first primary election held under the charter.

Another amendment would restore the recall. Some surprise was expressed when the legislative committee dealing with the new charter eliminated the recall provision on the ground that it is impracticable. It is not impracticable if there is a strong sentiment behind it. The only time when it is impracticable is when some little clique having a grievance, starts a petition for a recall. No community is likely to apply the recall without good and sufficient reason.

Another proposed change is that in future the nomination of candidates for municipal offices shall be made in party primaries. There may be some objection to any movement favoring a return to party politics in municipal affairs. We feel, however, that it would be better to have some responsible organization to put forward the best candidates available than to allow the matter to go by default and leave the electorate to select blindly in selecting the candidates from among those who voluntarily present themselves. Two opposing political parties would always try to put forward their best men and each would be in a measure responsible for their elected officials.

This city has never been able to secure such a high average of efficiency in public officials above the party system was abolished. We realize that there should be no party lines drawn in city affairs, but it would be better to return to the old system than to have city elections decided upon religious or racial lines.

It is not likely that the legislature will favor any such radical change in the new charter so soon after its adoption as it is desired the general policy of cities to follow party lines in their municipal politics.

BUREAUCRACY DENOUNCED

President Butler of Columbia university in his annual report deals with the dangerous movement known as bureaucracy at Washington. As a result of the war, this delegation of governmental functions to different boards or commissions has assumed alarming proportions. It is stated that in addition to the ten departments under the cabinet, there are over 100 bureaus, commissions, boards, corporations, councils and academies, all maintained at the expense of the government and each supposed to have a separate function, although many of them have nothing whatever to do except a mere portion of the work that should come under the general departments.

Of late years, reformers who think they have an idea that would help the country or bring their names into prominence, rush to congress and introduce a bill to establish some new bureau to relieve what is represented as an existing evil or to meet what they deem to be a long felt want. When these so-called reformers get going, they find no difficulty in presenting an excuse for favoring some such measure. We have had several instances bearing upon education, domestic affairs, and others of the most vital character put forward in a manner that could not fail to entrench upon the sovereign rights of the state.

Of late it seems merely a joke to talk of state sovereignty. Washington seems to have become an imperial power that concerns itself with the private business of the people in every state and even sends its police into the states to enforce this overlordship and often in open conflict with state authorities even in their domestic affairs. It is no wonder, therefore, that President Butler uses his power of investiture in assailing this particular evil. In reference to the proposition to put the educational system of school children throughout the country under a bureau at Washington, he says:

"There is not money enough in the United States, even if every dollar of it were expended in education, to produce by federal authority or through what is naively called co-operation between the federal government and the federal states, educational results that would be at all comparable with those that have already been reached under the free and natural system that has grown up among us."

Prof. Butler, however, hits his strongest blow when he asserts that in defiance of our federal system of government, Washington is building a system of bureaucracy that will put to shame the best efforts of the czars of Russia in that direction.

JAPAN'S OBSTINACY

Japan is holding on the Shanghai question just as she did on the reduction of her navy, but to a greater extent. She is willing to yield certain encroachments on conditions that are wholly unacceptable.

This is equivalent to a refusal, and is opposed to the policy of the powers in favor of the territorial integrity of China. What Japan clings to most tenaciously is the German leasehold rights taken over during the war. These include possession of the harbor of Kiao-chow, which is one of the most secure for a naval retreat in case of war that could be found anywhere on the globe.

The entrance is as narrow as that of the Dardanelles and the enclosed bay is quite spacious. It is the outlet for the great railway system reaching the interior of China and extending north into Siberia. Japan controls this railroad to Tientsin, a distance of 500 miles inland. It is the importance of this impregnable naval haven and its rail connection with a richly productive country that causes Japan to haggle and make various excuses for not keeping her promise to vacate Shanghai. This is but another proof of the militaristic aims of Japan and her designs on China. She could defend the harbor of Kiao-chow against the combined fleets of all the other powers of the world. The fort of Tsin-tao at the entrance of the harbor is one of great importance.

All the contention that Japan is willing to make in reply to the demand of the United States, England and France is, that China may have part ownership providing Japan shall have entire control of the railroad with mining privileges for coal and iron on either side along its route. That shows very clearly the intentions of Japan. She will not cease to encroach on China; she will not yield to the powers that promised to maintain the integrity of China, and she will not relinquish her hold on the territory she has acquired in China.

BRITISH EVACUATION

Dublin castle has been turned over to the provisional government of Ireland and great is the rejoicing thereat. Well may the people rejoice to see it evacuated by the British forces and placed in control of Michael Gruffy and Michael Collins as heads of the new Irish government. The Irishmen who have been on the run for the past several years can now sleep in peace in their own homes without fear of being dragged from their beds to be shot like dogs. The Elder Unionists are still doing their kind of work, but they will very soon desert as we believe that province will enter the new Irish Free State out of regard for its own economic interests if for no other cause.

This is undoubtedly the dawn of a new era for Ireland and one that is sure ultimately to bring peace, prosperity and contentment to her people.

DRIVE FOR PRODUCTION

With manufacturers the great problem is to get prices down to a figure that will induce the people to buy. Some men are able to acquire their way out and others are not. It all depends upon the business and the circumstances under which it is conducted.

One of the great aims is to keep down the overhead charges in relation to the general output. If a given plant can turn out say a hundred units per day; the percentage of overhead charges will be greatly reduced if the output be increased to 200 or 300 units, even if the force of labor is increased accordingly.

Take a real example obtained from a coal mine. If 75 tons were mined daily the labor cost was 12 per ton and 60 cents overhead charges; but if 300 tons were mined; the labor cost was 12.25 per ton and the overhead charges 16 cents a ton. Even that small margin in a manufacturing business would make the difference between success and failure.

Valuable Information

Broadway was beginning to line up along the curbs in anticipation of the arrival of one of the distinguished European war heroes coming here to participate in the limitation of armaments conference. Some one approached a policeman standing at the side of the street, with the interrogatory, "What's the crowd waiting for?" "Don't you read the papers?" was the reply. "Gen. Beatty is coming."

Chimney Fires

Defective chimneys and flues caused a loss, by fires, of $71,037,084 worth of dwelling houses in the last six years, says an insurance organization. That's only a story of the day, for it doesn't include property not insured. Observe that all these fires were preventable. So, for that matter, are practically all fires. Inspect your chimney. If full of root, it may catch fire. Often the chimney root can be removed by burning some potato peelings.

Important News

The small boy in the omnibus was wriggling with impatience. He was clearly bursting with important information, and nobody would pay him the slightest attention. He pulled at his mother's handkerchief, who went on talking to his aunt. He kicked his feet against her skirts, he joggled her elbow. "Well, what is it?" she said at last. "Mother, all the boys at our school have got colds."

MAN ABOUT TOWN

A few shovels full of snow tossed in certain spots on Centralville bridge would alleviate a hardship to horses, which I have noticed in passing. The structure several lines of late. But yesterday morning I noticed a faithful horse, tugging at a loaded sleigh, which refused to budge because of the abundance of snow in the middle of the bridge. "Old Dobbin" was giving everything he had in him in an effort to pull the load, but it wouldn't budge. I did not remain to see the outcome of the horse's efforts, but realized the whole situation could be remedied if, from time to time, a little snow were thrown on the bridge.

An interesting side-light on Soviet Russia's attitude toward capitalists allowed to invest money in that country was given at a meeting in Lowell, recently. The Russians were said to be taking advantage of the organizing skill of "capitalists" to start their industries going and introduce numbers of trained men as foremen. They will then have to get workers and these will be recruited from the villages. The workers will be organized into trade unions for given rides. If necessary, it will then be easy to answer the question: "Who is in control, the capitalists or the workers?" For this reason capitalists have been invited into Russia, according to the story. These present seemed to think this a very good solution for the Russian economic problem, for when contributions were asked, starting with the respectable sum of $25, the aids had to be reduced to $5 before anyone stepped forward. There were four contributors even at this bargain rate. A few smaller bids, very few in fact, were donated, and in the silver collection, although the man on the platform had said that half-dollar bids were less ambitious and "nothing too small or too large." A book written by the speaker and others for the lowly sum of $10.00 a copy found very few takers. Thus it appears that the soviet sympathizers in this city are not sincerely interested in the soviet much to its support. Mr. Foster's mission here did not prove a howling success.

U. S. REGAINING MENTAL POISE

Vice Pres. Coolidge Sees a Renewed Hope for Welfare of the World

Country Leading Nations in One of Greatest Liberal Movements of Mankind

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—America is regaining its mental poise, re-establishing its international stability and leading the nations in one of the great liberal movements of mankind, Vice President Calvin Coolidge in an address last night, told the Philadelphia Forum. An American, he said, could survey the developments of the last year without a renewed faith in the financial strength and the moral vigor of the nation and a renewed hope for the welfare of the world.

"There have been doubts," the speaker said, "but they are being solved. There have been trials, but they are passing away. The hand of man is turning again to industry. Men and nations are coming closer and closer in the harmonious relationship of peace. Through a series of fortunate circumstances America has been permitted to recover first from the disastrous results of the war, Mr. Coolidge said. "But," he added, "from our great accomplishment we ought not to turn to great discouragement, but to great confidence. It ever there was a time, that time is now when the people of America and of all the earth ought to feel with increasing warrant, that they are established in the possession of the power to do and dare. This process has already begun. No one who knows America could doubt that for long will she refuse to face facts with a clear vision or lack for confidence or courage."

The vice president also recounted the achievements of the administration in Washington. In touching upon the work of the cabinet, he said that by reorganization it is hoped to co-ordinate and unify the work of these departments so that they will neither overlap nor be hampered by functions which should be performed by some other department.

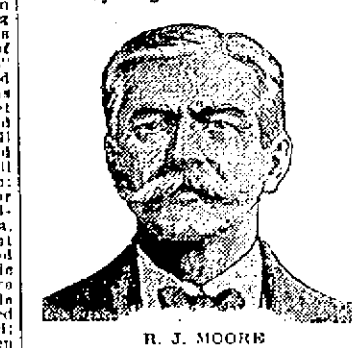

"It is expected," he declared, "that a reorganization will not only make a considerable saving at once, which will enlarge as time goes on, but cause a more effective administration of all the activities of the government."

Mr. Coolidge outlined the expected work of legislation enacted by the last and present congress, paying particular attention to the tax revision, and reviewed the activities of the bodies studying the tariff, railroad and merchant marine measures. "Some of the equipment of shipyards will have to stand aside by the side of the equipment of training camps," he said. "But this great fleet of vessels is a large and ought to be, a valuable asset. If America wants a fleet, surely it can have one, but it cannot be had without making the sacrifice necessary to maintain it. America has felt the importance and humiliation of being denied access to the sea. It has borne the almost unbelievable expense of putting into the construction of a fleet in a few months about one-sixth of all it had put into the construction of railroads in two generations. It is a less expensive and better national policy to maintain a fleet in time of peace than to be compelled to build one in time of war."

In reviewing the Washington arms conference, the speaker said: "It has been noted that the list of positive accomplishments has been steadily increasing. To the agreed limitation of capital ships, the peace-promoting provisions of the four-power treaty, there has been added the declaration against the use of the submarine as a commerce destroyer and the prohibition of the use of poison-gas. Along with these have gone limitations as to the size and armament of auxiliary craft. The settlement of conflicting interests in Yap and the mandated islands north of the equator, the

MAUDE ADAMS GIVES BIG ESTATE TO CATHOLICS

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Maude Adams, Protestant actress, has given her $130,000 country estate at Lake Ronkonkoma, L. I., to the Roman Catholic Sisterhood of Our Lady of the Cenacle.

Miss Adams, who has not appeared on the stage for several years, became interested in retreats conducted by the sisters for secular women and while in this city was accustomed to stay at the convent of St. Regis in West 140th street.

When knowledge of Miss Adams' gift became public yesterday, it was learned that she had offered her estate about a year ago, to enable the sisterhood to enlarge its work.

Before permission could be obtained from Bishop McDonnell to accept the gift he died. A week ago the matter was brought to the attention of Bishop Foley and he immediately gave his approval.

The estate, situated in one of the finest sections of Ronkonkoma, consists of a large stone residence, several outhouses and 300 acres, extensively developed and designed by prominent architects and landscape gardeners.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ALL SOULS CHURCH

Reports for the year just closed were read, officers elected for 1922 and plans outlined for another successful year's work in religious activities at the annual meeting of All Souls church, last evening.

A. Fisher presided and Joseph W. Peabody officiated as clerk. Supper preceded the business session.

The old officers were returned to office with the exception of Miss Mildred Nelson of the standing committee, who is now absent from Lowell.

Miss Nelson is succeeded by Mrs. Theodore E. Parker. Winslow R. Clark will continue to preside over this body.

Committee reported an increase in church membership, better condition in church finances and a widened scope of public activities.

An interesting report came from the pastor, Rev. A. C. McGiffert, Jr., who outlined plans for carrying on parish work in the next 12 months.

The Channing fraternity, a social relief organization, in existence for 30 years, reported last evening that its work during the past year has been very successful, supplying many shut-ins with flowers and useful articles and also providing excursions for mothers and sickly children.

BORROW MONEY TO BUILD HOMES

A copy of a bill introduced into the legislature, which, if passed, will allow Lowell people to borrow money from the city for the purpose of erecting homes, has been received by City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney. The bill provides that cities and towns may borrow in excess of their statutory limit of indebtedness to an amount equal to 1 per cent of their assessed valuation to provide money for any of their citizens who wish financial assistance in building homes. Approval of the city solicitor and city building inspector first must be secured before the money is loaned.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem AS ONE DAD SEES IT

I do not want my children to think of me with awe, A stern dogmatic parent whose very word is law, But rather as an older pal whose wide experience Has given to him, by and large, a modicum of sense, Then they can take my counsel and see that it is fair And in whatever they may do I'll have a chance to share; I hope that they can say of me—I ask no sweeter fame— "Father is a sportsman and he always plays the game!"

I want to be their playmate, I want to help them learn The fine and honest code of sport; I want their hearts to burn With zeal to win each contest, but to win it clean and straight, Or lose it—if they're beaten—without whimpering at Fate; I can't do that by precept, for the precept would be vain Unless my own example made the lesson very plain, I can't do otherwise if I would hear my children claim, "Father is a sportsman and he always plays the game!"

From crooked deals in business, from doubtful devious tricks, From slightly questionable acts in trade and politics, From various hypocrisies and sophistries and lies Which what we call society too often justifies— From these, dear Lord, deliver me! I want my kids to say "The old boy made a record which we hadn't hide away, He didn't ask for favors and he faced life as it came, Father was a sportsman and he always played the game!"

Duggan and O'Higgins Confer With British Cabinet on New Irish Government

Initial Steps Taken Yesterday When Collins Took Over Dublin Castle

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Details incident to the transfer of authority in southern Ireland from the crown government to the provisional administration established in Dublin on Saturday, were considered here today. Eamon J. Duggan and Kevin O'Higgins, delegates of the Irish provisional government, arrived in London to confer with the members of the British cabinet relative to the investment of the new regime with governmental responsibility. Initial steps in the establishment of the new provisional government of the Irish free state headed by Michael Collins were taken at Dublin yesterday, when a proclamation was issued, announcing the provisional government had entered upon its duties under the treaty with Great Britain. The war office has announced that withdrawal of British forces in southern Ireland will commence immediately and that the men will be moved as rapidly as conditions permit. The Morning Post, a newspaper which has steadfastly shown hostility to Irish home rule and has upheld the principle of unionism, today printed the following despatch from its Dublin correspondent. "The provisional government will make a great mistake if it does not level Dublin Castle to the ground. There is an evil spell upon it, and its spirit is quite as capable of destroying the Irish free state as it was of destroying the union with England. Certainly, nobody who has believed in that union would weep if the castle should crumble to dust. Its spirit of intolerant bureaucracy, the type of politician that it harbored and the kind of administration it bred, did more to destroy the union than agitators and treason-mongers. "When the exodus begins, the fastnesses of Dublin Castle will disgorge high salaried officials who have not done a stroke of honest work in years."

FINED FOR KEEPING
GAMBLING MACHINE

Arraigned for unlawfully keeping a slot gambling machine, John Jemison, a dealer of a coffee house at 81 Dummer st., pleaded ignorance before Judge Enright in district court today. He stated that the machine had been left there by a man who had assured him that it was "all right" and that was all he knew about it. That was not a substantial defense, however, the court finding him guilty and imposing a fine of $50. The gambling machine was seized by Patrolmen Moore and Conney of the vice squad late Saturday night. The apparatus was exhibited in court and operated. In fact it was found to be in perfect working order for when Patrolman Conney inserted a nickel in the slot and pressed a lever four brass discs, each one marked "good for five cents in trade," came out of a receptacle in the bottom of the machine. That he coaxed on a sled in Fifth street, a Centralville boy was placed on probation for a year and given a severe call-down by the judge. The youth was arrested by Sgt. Frawley who testified that the defendant had not been working for months and had been causing trouble in the Lakeview avenue district. "You better take care," the court admonished him. "And a job and reform or I'll send you to Shirley the next time you're brought here."

Turning to the policeman, the justice advised them to hale into court some of the other alleged "roughnecks" who were reported to have been causing disturbances in that section. In a continued drunkenness case from yesterday Joseph Smith was fined $5, which he paid.

TEAMSTERS HONOR
THOMAS GARVEY

Members of Teamsters' union, 88, employed as drivers and helpers in the department of ash collection, yesterday presented Thomas F. Garvey, foreman at the health yard, a travelling bag, a pair of fur-lined driving gloves, a silk umbrella and an amber stem meerschaum pipe as expressions of their high regard. The occasion was the physical tragedy of the men of the ash collection department from the health department to the street department and in so doing, Mr. Garvey no longer will be their foreman. Hereafter they will work under the direction of Sutton Wilson, recently appointed by Mayor Brown as superintendent of ash collection.

Mr. Garvey felt that it was a particularly fine and thoughtful thing for his men to do and although the presentation of the gifts came as a surprise to him, he expressed his sincere appreciation.

BURCH JURY DISAGREES

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 17.—The date of a second trial of Arthur C. Burch, indicted for the murder of J. Helton Kennedy, was expected to be set today in superior court, where yesterday a jury of 10 women and two men reported a disagreement and was discharged after a trial lasting eight weeks. The vote on the final ballot was 10 to 2 for conviction, jurors said. It was expected the second trial would follow that of Mrs. Madalynne Oberchain, indicted with Burch, which is set to begin February 5. "I am going to keep after Burch until I get him," declared Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney.

attached to the position, which is permanent for the year and the appointment does not require the confirmation of the council. Keeper of the lockup and superintendent of police are distinct and separate offices and under the old form of government the municipal council invariably elected the then superintendent, Edmund Welch, as keeper of the lockup. The duties of the keeper are those naturally invested in a custodian of any building. He is held responsible and accountable for all property within the building, but has no part in the actual operation of the police department. The keeper also is responsible for all goods stored in the building. Mayor Brown said that Major MacBrayne will hold this position for the year, regardless of the outcome of the hearing to be given Edmund Welch, suspended superintendent.

The will is being contested by several who claim to be heirs at law, and by the representatives of Rose Carney, a former resident of this city, who left Lowell for Ireland about a year ago and whose present whereabouts is not known. Rose Carney is represented by Daniel J. Donahue, while the other contestants are represented by Frank Goldman and a couple of out-of-town lawyers. Those who oppose the will base their claim on the fact that they were related by blood to deceased, although it is contended that Rose Carney is the nearest relative. Lawyer Donahue stated this morning that every attempt possible has been made during the past six months to locate the Carney woman, but all efforts have proven futile. He said it may be that the woman lost her life in the uprisings that have taken place in Ireland, but he requested the court to continue the hearing, in hopes that the woman may be located. # BALLADS OF BASEBALL

BY GEORGE MORIARTY

THE PIKER

The bally piker gets my goat, who bets a measly dollar note upon a baseball game, and losing it, starts in to snort that baseball is a crooked sport, and nothing but a frame.

The true fan in the bleacher sits applauding skillful plays and hits—they bring sweet joy to him, while Mister Piker damns the luck unless he wins the measly bux to pad his bankroll slim.

With honesty, a virtue lost, he says, "All baseball games are tossed!" that is his mournful moan; he's always willing to confide the mortar is all set and dried before a ball is thrown.

Oh, piker, while you rant and cry, don't judge the baseball diamond by the diamond on your paw; the diamonds of the fountains, the minor leagues and big league tents, have in them not a flaw.

What is the one great weakness of major league baseball at the present time?

That is an easy one. Unquestionably it is pitching. The batters have the edge by a wide margin.

The supremacy of the batter, however, is always slumped. In two or three years the pitcher will again be on top.

All of which brings us to the question: What is the matter with the pitching? That is as easy of solution.

Lack of a good curve ball is the fault of seventy per cent. of the present-day major league pitchers. It has become a lost art with some of them.

The era of freak pitching, plus the impression that a curve ball is hard on the arm, has had much to do with the passing of the curve from the repertoire of a great many pitchers.

The freak delivery was a creation of the fast ball. In using the ordinary ball, the mud ball, or any of the other so-called freaks, the fast ball was necessary to get the break.

While those deliveries were colorful, a great many pitchers shifted almost entirely to the fast ball. Incidentally, for years there has been a growing impression among pitchers that the curve ball was very bad on the arm. Those two things have caused the temporary downfall of the "hook."

Fifteen years ago practically every major league pitcher boasted of a good curve ball. Today the curve of a great many pitchers does little more than twist. One good curve ball pitcher on a staff is about the average.

In the world series of 1921 the piteness of the curve ball was apparent. Barnes, Douglas and Neft of the Giants set down the Yankees without much trouble, and all because the trio used a curve ball to decided advantage.

I never saw a pitcher have a better curve than did Barnes in the big series. Douglas and Neft were not far behind. The Yankees expected a ball pitched from Douglas, and were entirely upset when Douglas used a curve ball almost exclusively.

It was the same on the side of the Yankees. Hoyt, who had such great success against the Giants in one of the best curve ball pitchers in the American league. Carl Mays, in addition to his peculiar underhand delivery, also makes use of a curve.

I have talked with a number of the great curve ball pitchers of the old days, and all of them say the throwing of a curve does not injure the arm if properly delivered.

When these wild batting orgies are stopped, it will be curve ball pitching that turns the trick.

NO "ANNIE OAKLEY" FOR BATTING NELSON

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Oscar Matthew (Battling) Nelson, former lightweight champion of the world, is out $5.50, the price of two tickets for a boxing contest. It is the first time he has been forced to dig into his pockets to see a fight.

Nelson, with his little brother, Bat, Jr., presented himself at the ticket office. "Who are you, that you should get passes?" queried the man in the ticket cage. "What have you done for boxing?"

"Who, me? I'm Bat Nelson," shouted the former lightweight.

"That racket, don't go here. Lay down the dough."

Nelson, mumbling words of disgust, produced the $5.50.

"What do you think of that? Bat Nelson forced to see a fight," was the veteran's parting shot.

MINERS TO TAKE UP NEW WAGE AGREEMENT

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Jan. 17.—A convention of miners, representing all the organized mine workers in the anthracite field, called to consider a new wage agreement, convened here today. The present working contract expires March 31.

The convention, according to the officers of the union, will ask for an increase in wages of about 20 per cent. It also will insist that the new rates be made uniform throughout the anthracite field as far as possible and that the hours of men working more than eight a day be reduced. A demand for the establishment of the check-off system also will be made.

It is generally understood in the coal fields that the mining companies will ask the men to take a reduction.

HANGS HIMSELF IN CELL

Chamberlain Charged With Implication in Alleged Defalcations, Ends Life

PAINTER, January 17.—Charles W. Chamberlain, manager of the local exchange of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., charged with implication in alleged defalcations of Town Treasurer George E. Clough, and who was arraigned yesterday, secured himself in his cell at the police station early today. His body was found suspended by his neck, which was attached to the top of the cell door. The jailer of the building when he came on duty for the day.

Mr. Chamberlain had been in the employ of the telephone company 24 years and came here from Concord, N. H., to become exchange manager. He was arrested Saturday and held in the city jail. He was held in $10,000 bonds, which he was unable to furnish.

Since his arrest, he had protested his innocence. He admitted business dealings with Town Treasurer Clough, but declared he had no knowledge of the town funds were involved. The sum of Clough's alleged defalcations is $20,000, and the same amount was mentioned in the charge against Chamberlain.

Chamberlain was visited last night by his counsel, Attorney W. J. Clough of Springfield, who said today that his client appeared in good spirits. Officer Charles Thomas, on night duty at the station, said that Chamberlain appeared restless and spoke to him several times during the night.

Increase in Annual Budget

Capital are lower by approximately $9000 than last year's expenditures. The amount of $87,561 is asked, against a total expenditure of $76,622.23. In the matter of groceries and provisions, the superintendent's figures show that he can save $2400, while a saving of $4100 will be made on the purchase of medicines and hospital supplies. For household supplies last year $11,284.79 was expended and this year only $6234 is asked, or a reduction of $5000. One item that shows an appreciable increase is that for a clerk, which jumps from $764.50 to $1100.

The estimate for the moth department, which is $5367, is about $150 lower than the sum expended last year. A saving of $360 is shown in the item of department equipment.

The sealers department last year expended $7755 and this year asks for $8100, the wire department last year expended $4437.62 and this year asks for $4554.78; the messenger's department last year spent $1930 and asks this year for $1955; the expenditures for city hall in 1921 amounted to $31,638 and for this year $32,092.61 is asked.

The estimate for the city clerk totals $13,160 against an expenditure last year of $11,814. For typewriters, $200 is asked, while the salary item of $10,200 is an increase of $1097.62 over the amount spent last year.

State aid asks for $35,200, against an expenditure of $22,731, while the assessors estimate it will require $29,555 to run their department this year, compared with expenditures of $24,896.28 last year. For printing and binding tax books, $2400 is asked and the item of salary for chief clerk and secretary is raised from $1862 to $2416. The license commissioner's estimate of $3700 is approximately $165 more than last year.

The Park Department has submitted an estimate of $27,730 against an expenditure last year of $21,226. Also, the park board, through its chairman, Clarence M. Weed, has requested in a letter to Mayor George H. Brown, that an immediate appropriation of $15,000 be made in order that the department may begin at once to repair the damage caused to trees by the rather recent storm.

Permanent improvements on the North and South commons, Shedd park, Fort Hill park, Washington park, Lincoln park and the Yarnum commons, expended last year amounted to $13,306 and for further permanent improvements this year, $16,500 is asked. Auditorium recreation is a new item, amounting to $1500, and several park rollers will be estimated, $2340. Salaries for playground supervisors are increased from $3418.50 to $5000.

It is believed that most of the other city departments will have their estimates ready tomorrow. They then will be bound in book form by the city auditor and a copy submitted to the mayor, members of the budget and audit commission, and members of the city council.

The procedure then will originate with the budget and audit commission, which will go over the estimates most thoroughly and submit them to the mayor. He, as a separate unit, will again go over them and eventually submit them to the city council.

The council is the last word on the estimates and has the power to decrease them or allow them to remain at the figures presented. The charter does not allow the council to increase the budget in any particular.

Most Brilliant Scene in Years

Mr. Rome has seen since the days before the war. New uniforms were worn by the troops on parade, there were touches of color everywhere and the shining silver helmets, the glittering swords, lances and bayonets combined to complete a brilliant spectacle at the railway station, which was packed with the Stars and Stripes and the Italian tricolor.

General Allen was met at the station by Richard Washburn Child, the American ambassador and Gen. Diaz, who recently returned from America. King Victor Emmanuel was represented by an aide.

Gen. Allen reviewed the guard of honor and complimented the commander on the smart appearance of his grenadiers.

After the formalities, Gen. Allen was driven to his hotel through lines of troops, while the American infantrymen marched away through double lines of Italian soldiers along the avenues to their barracks. The Royal Piedmont Lancers and mounted carabinieri escorted the Americans along the line of march, and hearty cheers and shouts of "Vive America!" from the thickly packed crowds. Newspapers here were filled today with glowing accounts of the deeds done by the American army during the great war, recalling the comradeship which existed between the Italians and Americans during the struggle.

Mayor Nallo issued a proclamation, which called upon the people of Rome to give a cordial greeting to the visitors.

Five Mile Procession Marks Passing of Last of Old Hawaiian Line of Monarchs

HONOLULU, Jan. 15.—(By the Associated Press)—A five mile procession weaving its colorful way through palm-fringed roads, today concluded the last rites in the funeral for Jonaki K. Kahanalana, whose death Jan. 7 ended the old Hawaiian line of monarchs. Of these, Kahanalana, known to the natives as Prince Kūhiō, was the last titular descendant.

The procession was led by a marcher carrying a Christian cross, while by his side marched one who carried a Tāhu stick, an emblem of the ancient regime. Behind these were groups of all official Hawaii, with representatives of churches, whose solemn clerical garbs contrasted sharply with those of Hawaiian warriors, clad in bright yellow and black cloaks and feathers. As the body was taken from the palace, armed batteries in the hills began the firing of minute guns, maintaining the saluting until the body had been borne to the royal mausoleum, where it was placed beside the older kings of Hawaii in a crypt hidden beneath a mound of floral offerings.

Large Number of Men in Woods Due to Unemployment Increased Fire Hazard

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 16.—The large number of men in the woods, due to lack of employment, increased the fire hazard, Fire Commissioner Samuel T. Dana said in his annual report, made public today, in explaining the cause of many of the 1096 fires which did damage estimated at $17,115, the past year. The acreage burned over was 68,830. Of the fire reported by the 61 watchmen and 80 patrolmen, 362 proved to be large.

"Many interested persons thought these men set fires for no other purpose than to obtain jobs in putting them out," Commissioner Dana said. "Others thought the rate of 50 cents per hour paid by the state, being twice as much as operators were paying their men, was an inducement to keep the fires alive. Very few of these fires obtained headway enough to do any great damage."

THE PSALMS ARE EVERY MEMBER PRESENT NOT OUTGROWN

St. Elizabeth Branch of the
Irish National Foresters
Elects Officers

Second in Series of Talks on "The Poetry of the Bible"

Miss Knott-Talks on "The Book of Psalms" at Women's Club

"The Book of Psalms" was the subject of an address by Miss Laura A. Knott before the Middlesex Women's club yesterday, forming the second in a series of three talks on "The Poetry of the Bible."

That the Book of Psalms is the most precious in the Old Testament, the one which we treasure above all the others, was Miss Knott's contention. The Psalms are never outgrown; we still find in them the ideals we cherish. Christ died for one of them on his lips. As they are dear to us they were dear to the ancient Israelites.

One of the most striking things about the Psalms is that all inequalities of life are banished—every person is granted an equal right of speech. They were the songs of praise and thanks of a simple people. Each music was accompanied by the Psalms at the beginning was probably wild and piercing, as with other primitive peoples, perhaps, like the Syrian music of today. It is shown, however, said the speaker, that other instruments were added from time to time—string instruments, veils, and pipe instruments, cymbals and castanets.

Answering the question as to when they were written and by whom, Miss Knott said that most of them were evidently written between 400 and 200 B.C. Fewer and fewer are now attributed to the author before the exile, according to the authorities, although a number of them show memory of the exile. If there were many of them before this time they cannot be identified. Many of them were inspired by the sufferings of Israel, although Israel had not yet suffered much.

Regarding the authorship of the Psalms, the speaker said that it was a most difficult question to settle. It would be a rash person who would deny that David wrote any of them. About 100 of them have been assigned to authors: 73 to David, 2 to Asaph, 1 to Moses, and others to various lesser personages. Many evidences of late origin have been found in the religious attitude and knowledge of other tongues shown in some of the Psalms. It is known that David, whether or not he wrote any great number of them, was an understanding, clear and true, great delight in music.

There was, possibly, a collection at one time called the "Songs of David." Solomon was generally regarded as a writer of psalms rather than psalms. Still, said Miss Knott, the authorship of the little difference—it could not make them any greater or more noble.

Although the whole gamut of human emotions is experienced in the Psalms, they are never pessimistic or cynical. This is one reason for their hold on mankind. Since the Psalms are recorded in our memories and his comedies passed us by; so with Dante and others. Life was hard to the early Hebrew, but he wanted to play the man, and the dominant note of the Psalms is triumphant faith, a joy so deep and true that it is a kind of great triumph, the triumph of the heart, the triumph of the soul, the triumph of the spirit, the triumph of the life from that of the frigid zones to that of the semi-tropics. "It is but a little country, but it is not the greatest in the world," said the speaker, "if measured by what came out of it."

The Psalms are the God of the whole world, not to the God of the Hebrews alone, although they felt that they were His people and that their enemies were His enemies. God was not ordinarily thought of as omnipresent, but in the heavens and the earth, Jerusalem. Some of the ancient Hebrews had larger conceptions of the Deity, however. His omnipresence was unquestioned. His everlasting kindness was recognized, and He was regarded as a refuge for the oppressed.

Miss Knott said that one of the most interesting questions concerning the psalms is the nature of their lyrics, whether or not they were better than those of today. They believed in happiness, not in a mournful religion. The higher moral obligations and the Golden Rule were the teachings of Christ, and consequently were not included in the Psalms; could not be, in fact. This is one respect in which modern ideals are more advanced than those of ancient Palestine. The Psalms do not give up the pulchritude we require, and in some respects they are far on us.

The Hebrews' ideal was that of a nation, not of a world. One class of Psalms has ever proved a stumbling-block, the imprecatory class, in which calls for vengeance are interjected in the midst of beautiful thoughts. There can be no doubt that the Hebrews were masters of the art of cursing. To be a good hater was a virtue with them. That idea is not peculiar to people of the present day, but the best of us are prone to forget it. Under similar conditions, Miss Knott asked how the world had outgrown this. In the late war did not one of the nations claim God as its special property? Notably in our own nation, since the war, our own God has sometimes been placed above that of humanity. As a professor said once, the Israelites were honest enough to express their feelings, and we are not, although we feel the same way. The psalmists were surrounded by cruel enemies and it was not natural that they should call on God to punish them. They were not animated by feelings making for threat for individual vengeance. Their idea was the primitive one that in destroying the sinner men must also be destroyed. They wanted to vindicate God. Many people hold to these ideas now. Although Christ rejected them. The Hebrews believed in rewards and punishments at the hands of God. That was their philosophy of life, the wicked must be punished and the good rewarded.

St. Elizabeth Branch of the
Irish National Foresters
Elects Officers

All members turned out last night to attend the first 1922 meeting of the St. Elizabeth branch of the Irish National Foresters, held in A. O. H. hall, Middle street. Ten members were initiated and five applications for membership accepted. Considerable business was transacted, and the new officers were installed with fitting ceremony, as follows: Grand ranger, Margaret McElhinney; sub chief, Mary Pelletier; treasurer, Nellie Howard; financial secretary, Susan Ryan; recording secretary, Mary Dillon; senior woodward, Mrs. Michael Mitchell; junior woodward, Annie Shaughnessy; senior beaver, Susan Adams; junior beaver, Mary Handley; board of trustees, Mary McGovern.

Chief Organizer Handley presided at the exercises and was efficiently assisted by Chief Ranger Thomas Galvin of the Patrick Sarsfield branch, of Lawrence. All officers made in remarks. An unusually fine entertainment followed, to which a large number of friends were invited, and for which excellent talent had been secured. Mr. Jack McArdle, a favorite entertainer, gave a number of songs, dances and recitations in his own inimitable way. Mr. McArdle's accompanist was Miss Leach. There were piano and violin selections by Frank Mills and Patrick Conneally, respectively, and Miss Mary Flanagan and Miss Margaret Murphy won much applause through their clever dancing of the Irish jig and reel, dressed in Irish costume. A reading by Thomas Galvin of Boston made a decided hit, and Mr. Fred Miller, entertained with some favorite songs. Miss Mary Spellmeyer sang "That Old Irish Mother of Mine," and was very well received.

A pleasant incident in connection with last evening's social session was a gift to Chief Ranger Galvin from her associate officers of 1921, a beautiful picture which she accepted most gratefully and gracefully. The presentation was made by Mr. Handley. Refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed until midnight.

AN EXCELLENT SHOWING Lowell Shows up Well in Perfect Package Campaign Results

Lowell stands fifth in Group A in the record of results of the Perfect Package campaign, conducted last November. It was announced today. Tabulation of the results of the campaign, both locally and throughout the nation, has been completed and shows completely what was accomplished in the city during the movement, according to F. W. Brown, chairman of the Lowell perfect package committee.

The tabulation also shows that Lowell ranks 11th in all the cities of the United States which have a population of 100,000 or more. Mr. Brown said today: "The shippers gave splendid co-operation in the campaign. The compilation of all perfect package records was received here last night. During November, when the carriers serving this city, made a special examination of all outbound freight and express shipments, Lowell made 8295 shipments by freight and 11,227 shipments by express. The total number of exemptions made on volume of freight and express was only five while that on the express came to 40."

"In other words, our perfect package score on freight was 99.95 and on express 99.95. Taken together, this gives the shippers of Lowell a final perfect package score of 99.95." The tabulation of the final perfect package records of cities throughout the country involved classifying them by population. Lowell comes under Class A, which includes all cities in the United States with a population of 100,000 and over.

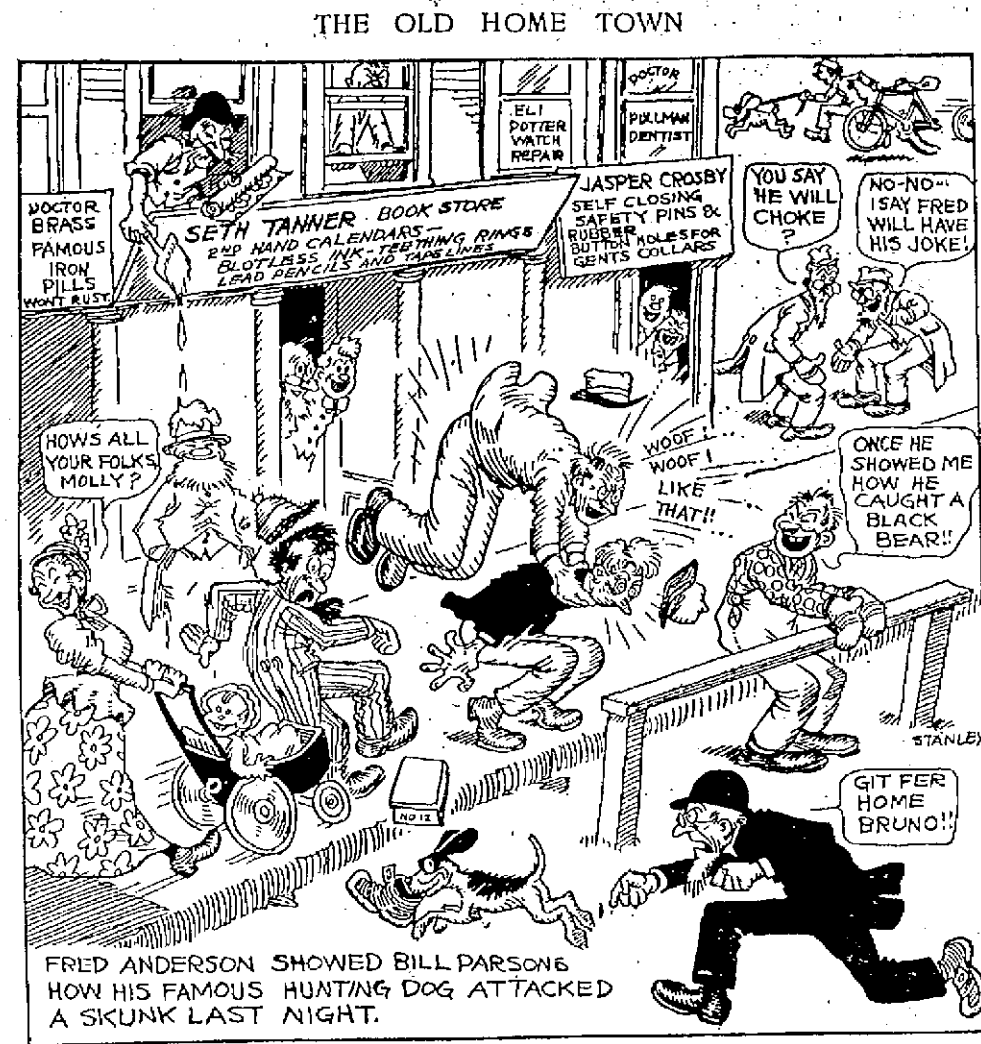

How well the city fared in the campaign, as compared with other points in the country, was the first point in the announcement of the shipping score of the country as a whole in the campaign, which was approximately 99 per cent. In the opinion of the transportation men, the campaign was a great success and indicated that the public was quite willing to add the carriers by giving them shipments in proper shape and thus facilitating handling to destination in good condition.

Africa, in 1920, had a population of 142,572,064.

ed. They preferred death to the betrayal of God, and never lost faith in Him, although He seemed to have forsaken them. The more helpless their condition the greater their faith.

The immortality of the soul is not mentioned directly in the Psalms, but there is much evidence that the Hebrews believed in it. They had a conception of the soul, and they had a conception of the resurrection. This is all brought to light in the New Testament; the old possessed but the germ.

Explaining, Miss Knott said that she wanted all to understand that the belief of many that Judaism was formal and ceremonial, pertaining only to the state and not to the spirit, is all wrong. Leaders are too much influenced by the Scriptures and the New Testament. This is not right, since no family life is purer than that of the Israelites. We should think of Judaism at its best in 400 B.C., at the time most of the Psalms were written, not at its best under the Romans in the last hundred years before the coming of Christ. We can see today that the wisdom of the Israelites was the chief marvel of history to the time of the kingdom's final fall in 70 A.D. We must think of the more or less prominent features as only the obvious side of Judaism. The ceremony of law was not the chief of its obligations. The psalms were never possessed of greater power than today. We know many things they did not know, but can explain nothing, but if our faith grows, we may renew it through the Psalms. These songs came to us out of unbearable conditions, according to our modern conception, having their origin in the hearts of a primitive and humble people devoting their best thought to the word of the Creator.

WILL SAVE CITY $43,000 DIRECTOR OF SCHOOL HYGIENE

Governor's Recommendation for State Tax Reduction
Would Help Lowell

(Special to The Sun.)
BOSTON, Jan. 17.—A saving of approximately $43,000 will accrue to Lowell taxpayers as a result of the recommendation by Governor Cox yesterday that state expenditures be kept within figures which will permit the state tax to be reduced from $14,000,000 to $12,000,000.

As a matter of fact, it is more than likely that the tax will be reduced below the amount stated, and in that event the saving will be even greater than the amount stated.

The figure arrived at by computing one-seventh of the tax paid last year, which was $288,450, is the basis for the recommendation. The promised reduction in the tax is the largest that has ever been made, surpassing the previous record of $1,750,000 made in 1916, when Joseph H. Warner of Taunton was chairman of the ways and means committee. At that time the state tax had been mounting steadily upward for several years, and the best that was hoped for was that it might be kept at the 1915 figure of $2,750,000. On that day the session of the legislature arose in his place and began reading a prepared speech. He informed the house that he had a little surprise to announce, and then proceeded most dramatically to announce the reduction.

This year's legislature will make every effort to bring about a still further reduction, and Rep. Frank E. Lyman of Easthampton, chairman of the ways and means committee in the house, will co-operate fully with Senator Leonard F. Barry of Hingham, and senator chairman of the same committee, to that end. But their task will be doubly hard because of publication of the fact that the state has on hand a surplus of $5,500,000. With that amount of money in the treasury it is doubtful if "the boys" can be made to take very seriously the pleas of the ways and means committee for economy.

City Department Estimates for 1922 Exceed Expenditures for 1921 With Two Exceptions

Of the 12 departmental estimates of expenditures for 1922, now in the hands of the city auditor, only two, the isolation hospital and the department, have presented estimates lower in total than last year's expenditures, while one, the fire department, has submitted an estimate that totals $197,565.15, or an increase over the expenditures of 1921 of $122,160.51. The remaining nine estimates, while being in excess of last year's expenditures in every case, nevertheless, are only slightly so in the majority of instances.

DENY BLACK CAP LEFT ON BODIES

Former Service Men Declare Witness Who Made Charges Was "Trouble Maker"

Say Report Soldiers Buried With Rope Around Neck and Cap Over Face Untrue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Former service men detailed for duty with the American Graves Registration Service in France, denied before a senate investigation committee that the bodies of soldiers legally put to death in France, were buried with rope around the neck and the black cap which had been placed on them on the gallows.

John R. Flynn of Cambridge, Mass., and G. A. Danford of Washington, both testified they had heard of nothing to substantiate such charges. Flynn declared that Rufus P. Hubbard of New York, who had testified that he saw bodies with rope and cap intact was a "troublemaker" who had to be transferred on that account.

The committee went into hanging methods as part of its general investigation of charges laid before the senate by Senator Watson, democrat.

Large Increase in Fire Department
Standing out among the estimates submitted to date is that of the fire department. For a new fire system, $50,000 is asked, while the item of new motor apparatus is $30,000. $2500 is asked for automobiles for assistance

Last year there was expended for wages for regular men in the department the sum of $238,391 and this year's estimate totals $250,004. The salary payroll for captains jumps from $34,839 to $40,942 and for lieutenants and engineers, from $42,346 to $44,493.

SELLING FAMILY JEWELS

Members of Once Proud House of Hapsburg Living in Poor Circumstances

GENEVA, Jan. 17.—Scattered throughout Europe, the members of the once proud house of Hapsburg, are all living in relatively poor circumstances, some of them in poverty.

Archduke Charles and Archduchess Zita, who were sent to Funchal, Madeira, as "guests" of the allies, are supplementing their allowance by the sale of some of the family jewels.

Archduke Eugene and Ferdinand have been permitted by the Swiss government, to remain at Lucerne, it being found after an inquiry that they had nothing to do with Charles' ill-fated attempt at restoration.

Archduke Max and Frederic are living with Archduchess Josepha in Bavaria; Albrecht resides with his mother, Isabella, at Budapest; Leopold Salvator, is staying at a villa near Barcelona; Joseph Ferdinand and Henry Ferdinand have settled down in the imperial hunting lodge at Salzburg and Archduchess Maria Annunciate lives alone in the chateau Vaux in Liechtenstein.

Some of the naves attempted to fatten their income by working but with more or less indifferent success. Literature in the form of "Memoirs" from various members of the family, has been presented to editors, but none of them has shown great enthusiasm to publish the books.

CLAIMS JAIL THREAT MADE

Detective Says Pelletier Threatened to Send Him up for Term

Laclair Refused to Hand Over Important Papers to District Attorney

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Assertion that Dist. Atty. Joseph C. Pelletier threatened to put him out of business and into jail when he refused to give Pelletier copies of the reports he had made to his employer in 1917, was made today by Andrew Laclair, former private detective at the trial of Pelletier before the supreme court on multiple charges of misconduct.

The testimony was offered by the government in support of its charge that Pelletier conspired with four others to extort money from Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Emery and Mrs. Jennie K. Chase.

Laclair was employed by Emery to watch Victor D. Papineau, first husband of Mrs. Emery. He testified that Pelletier summoned him to his office and demanded that he turn over reports of his surveillance of Papineau. He refused, he testified.

"I will give you one hour to give me all of those reports," the witness quoted the district attorney as saying, "or I'll put you out of business and put you in jail."

"I defied him to do it and he ordered me to wait outside the grand jury room," Laclair replied, according to his testimony.

Subsequently Pelletier had him taken before the grand jury to be questioned. Continued to Page 12

American Legion Men Hear Splendid

Address by Lowell Priest, Former Chaplain in Canadian Army

More than 400 members of Lowell post, 87, American Legion and about 100 of the Ladies' auxiliary listened to a most inspiring address regarding the war and its aftermath by Rev. J. A. Fortier, O.M.I., former chaplain of the Canadian forces with the Canadian front-line troops, at the regular meeting of the organization in Memorial hall last evening.

Having seen service during the war and for some time after with the Canadian forces, the speaker had plenty of material on which to draw, and most interestingly described his experiences at the front and told of the duties performed by chaplains on the field of battle and recounted some of his own interesting experiences.

Life of a chaplain. After telling some of the things done by the Canadian government immediately after the war for her soldiers, Fr. Fortier spoke in favor of this country doing the same for her warlike sons, outlining how Canada made farm concessions to her service men and how the latter successfully worked them and made of them profitable propositions in less than a year. The speaker thought that the United States government should deed farms to her soldiers in recompense for their great sacrifices of the war, rather than cash rewards, for in the end the occupation of the soil will reap the greater reward.

Following a brief business session conducted by Commander Stephen C. Garrity, the meeting was turned over to Post Chaplain Rev. William A. Mehan, O.M.I., who, with an excellent introductory, presented Fr. Fortier to the gathering of men and women. "My dear comrades," said the speaker, "you have addressed me as chaplain. I wish I could answer you in such a capacity. Major General Seeley, ex-secretary of state of England, and later commanding the British air forces, a very dear and personal friend of mine, commenting upon the presence of chaplains in the army, said that as ministers of God they were the right hand men of the commanding officers, but as soldiers they were worthless." He then went on to tell

Liquor Steamer Off on Third Leg of Trip

ROCKLAND, Me., Jan. 17.—The little British steamer Harbinger, with coal bunkers and water tanks refilled, left port today on the third leg of her voyage to Nassau, B. W. The craft was again under convoy of the coast guard cutter Ossipee.

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair: "Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/2 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—Adv.

TO STIMULATE PUBLIC WORK

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 17.—Many subjects of importance to the construction world are to be discussed by the Associated General Contractors of America during a three days' conference which opened here today. The general scope was suggested by Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce. Ways and means of starting billions of dollars worth of building are among the subjects to be considered. Twenty billion dollars worth of construction has been planned says J. O. Winston of Minneapolis, president of the organization. A reserve fund movement will be launched to stimulate public work in times of business depression.

"I NEVER FELT SO STRONG IN ALL MY LIFE"

That Is What Mrs. Ruth Edwards, of Boston, Says After Taking Tanlac—Health Completely Restored

"Well, it seemed as if all the folks in our neighborhood were praising Tanlac, so I started taking it myself, and the results have been astonishing," was the statement of Mrs. Ruth Edwards, 18 Barnell st., Boston, Mass. "Yes, Tanlac certainly has been a blessing to me and I shan't stop praising it enough. For six years I suffered continually from dyspepsia and indigestion. Words cannot describe the torture I suffered from the pains in my stomach. The gas used to press up to my chest until I was so short of breath I turned right dizzy, black spots came before my eyes and I often thought I was going to fall. Many a time I thought sure I hadn't much longer for this world. I was so nervous I dreaded to go down town by myself, and was actually afraid to try to cross Tremont street in the heavy traffic. I had almost forgotten what a good night's sleep was, and always felt tired and worn out."

However, I could feel myself improving with every dose of Tanlac I took, and now I am entirely free from dyspepsia and indigestion and have gained 12 pounds in weight. The Tanlac Vegetable Pills rid me of constipation, which had bothered me ever since I can remember. In fact, I can't remember ever feeling as well as I do now. My nerves are so steady and calm that I don't mind crossing the street in the thickest of traffic, and I sleep like a child. Tanlac is worth its weight in gold."

NOTE—Tanic Vegetable Pills are an essential and vitally important part of the Tanlac treatment. You cannot hope to get the most satisfactory results from Tanlac without first establishing a free and regular circulation of the bowels. Tanlac Vegetable Pills are absolutely free from calomel and are sold on a positive guarantee to give satisfaction. Tanlac and Tanlac Vegetable Pills are sold in Lowell by Green's drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; A. D. Falls, Chelmsford, Mass.; Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

KIDNAPPED BY AUTO BANDITS

Milkman and Helper Held up
and Robbed of $400 and
Taken Off in Car

Forced at Gunpoint to Abandon
Wagon and Step Into
Auto in Broad Daylight

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Ordered off their wagon and into an automobile and driven to a lonely spot in Arlington, where they were robbed of more than $400 by armed bandits in broad daylight, is the remarkable story told the police by Harry Leeds, 21 Wellington street, Dorchester, a driver for D. Whiting & Sons, milk dealers, and his helper, Simon Kominsky of the same address. The latter was allowed to keep $1.50 when the bandits were told that he had long been out of work.

The robbery as related by the two men was one of the boldest that has taken place during the wave of banditry that has swept New England and occurred at a spot in full view of passing "U" trains on Maiden bridge. Although the police of three cities began an immediate search for the bandits when notified two hours later, no trace of them was found.

FAIRBURN RESTAURANT IS OPEN AGAIN

Having undergone thorough renovation and repair, with the latest and most up-to-date equipment installed, Fairburn's restaurant at 15 Bridge street is once more open to the public. Everything has been so rearranged that there is practically nothing left as a reminder of the old restaurant. An excellent kitchen, with five chefs and an equal number of assistants, provides ample accommodations for the preparation of everything that is served in the spacious new restaurant, where 12 neatly attired waitresses are in constant attendance. Ray Peabody, an experienced restaurateur, is in charge.

The site at 15 Bridge street was originally occupied by the Evans' lunch room, later known as Fox's. The Fairburn company purchased it some years ago, and conducted it in the old style until a week ago, when it was closed for alteration and repairs.

COLD SNAP IS HELPING ICE HARVESTERS

The latest cold snap with zero temperatures is helping the ice men as well as the coalmen. Today the big houses on the river above the dam are being filled with splendid ice, and the weather man assures the Daniel Gage ice people that more cold weather is on the way, which will help to keep the ice cutters and "fillers" busy without a let-up.

The work will continue the remainder of the week and probably a little longer, as there is plenty of good, thick ice and a lot of it that cannot be stored will be stacked up in the yards and at convenient places on the banks. The temperature this morning was close to zero at the river, and northern cities and towns of New England reported 2 and 4 below.

very nearly going to jail, the judge twice stating that he ought to impose a direct sentence, considering the large amount of liquor manufactured, which Vierra admitted to the raiding officers. The government, however, felt satisfied with a heavy fine. Federal Officers Sheldon and Bowers and the local liquor squad, under the direction of Sergt. Winn, raided the defendant's premises late last night. In a large room of the house the officers found a real distillery on a small scale. A 60-gallon still was running full blast, while surrounding it and lined up against the walls were 17 full barrels of mash. Besides this the authorities also seized about 2 1/2 gallons of moonshine and many empty bottles and jugs. Sergt. Winn testified that Vierra admitted he was selling the liquor at $3.00 a gallon and was turning out about 2 gallons a day. It became known today that yesterday morning, three members of the new liquor squad, Lieut. Palmer and Patrolmen Lynch and Aldrich, made a sensational raid in a near-by saloon in Middlesex street. It was stated by the acting chief, however, that somebody saw the officers coming and just for that they didn't find anything.

ONE MONTH IN JAIL FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

James Hamilton, a resident of North Billerica, who is in his 33rd year, was this morning ordered committed by Judge Leggat of the probate court, to the house of correction at East Cambridge for one month for contempt of court. Upon hearing the sentence Mr. Hamilton smiled and then turning to Melvin C. Rogers, counsel for the prosecution, said: "You will have to pay my fare to Boston. Mr. Rogers then gave the court officer $1.07 for the traveling expenses of his prisoner.

In imposing sentence, Justice Leggat said: "I think I've put up long enough with this. You order every order of the court. You got $15 a week for a long while but you have failed to comply with the order of the court. You have been in this court once a month since I came on the bench. You owe your wife over $500, according to an order from this court. You will have to pay $200 and to request $3 a week from you, and still you have refused to make good."

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton have been living apart for several years. About a year ago Mr. Hamilton was brought into probate court on a charge of non-support. At that time he was ordered to pay his wife $6 a week, but it seems that he did not comply with the order, for last April he was ordered committed to the house of correction for one month. He served his time, and when he came out he again refused to comply with the order of the court, to stated Mr. Rogers this morning when he informed the court that the defendant has not paid one cent to his wife since last April. Mr. Rogers also brought out that Hamilton is drawing money every month from a trust fund, and when questioned by the court the defendant admitted receiving between $300 and $400 a year from the said fund, but said he needed all that money to live. Upon leaving the courtroom, Mr. Hamilton invited Mr. Rogers to come in and see him at East Cambridge.

Keep Out of Car Track!

to use beside the rails, are to be complained of to the police and warrants issued for their arrest if they persist in blocking traffic.

Today officials of the Eastern Massachusetts street railways decided to inaugurate a vigorous campaign against the car track blockers. Scores of complaints have been sent to headquarters during the past few weeks about tardy car service and failure of the company to keep anywhere near its schedule on several important lines in the city limits. There have been numerous complaints from Central-street patrons, as well as patrons of cars out on Middlesex and Gorham streets.

The company declares that 25 so-called tardy cars out of every 100 are due solely to street blockades caused by wagons or trucks getting in the way and remaining there an unnecessary length of time. Several cases have just been reported where drivers of auto trucks have refused to "get out of the way" until they apparently felt like doing it. One car was held up for 10 minutes in front of a car on Central-street from a short distance away was more than half an hour off schedule.

Passengers have been complaining that the cars are "never on time," but the company can prove that nearly all the serious delays are caused by track blockades, the result of auto drivers declining to make way for the electric trolleys.

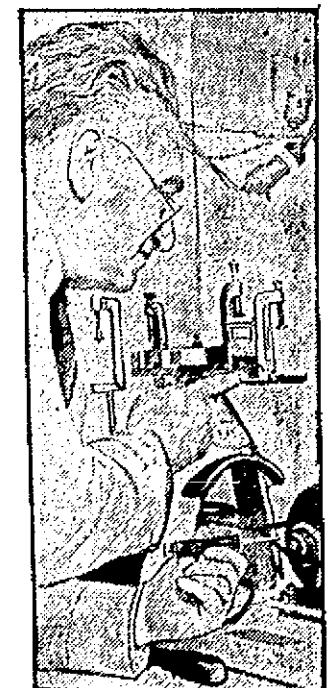

This morning, Supt. Whalen had a typical case reported to him. A car returning on the Lakewood line was delayed all the way from Cohasset to Allen avenue by a light auto truck getting in the rails ahead and remaining there. There was ample room for the auto driver to use the road on the side of the rails, but he simply feared at the moment's halt and kept the car behind until he had to leave the track to get to another street.

Numerous cases of this deliberate blockading of streets by auto drivers have been reported during the past week and yesterday on Middlesex and Gorham streets.

The police were notified today that the company will prosecute all cases where blockades are caused deliberately. Allowance will be given by the inspectors and motormen for autoists unable to "swing out" of the rails owing to piles of snow or other conditions preventing prompt departure on approach of the electric, but the inspector now watching for the trouble-making autoists and drivers of delivery wagons in general, will report all cases, and secure names where deliberate attempts are made to hold up car service.

Immediate prosecutions will be started by the street railway company.

This inspection started to work this morning, and they will be on duty in various parts of the city from now on for an indefinite period.

Sealdsweet Grapefruit and Oranges

In buying grapefruit and oranges, remember that true beauty is more than skin deep. The real merit of these citrus fruits is in the juice and good looks do not signify juiciness.

Grapefruit or oranges that are russet or golden will be found just as juicy and sweet as fruits which are bright on the outside. Whatever the color, tree-ripened Sealdsweet grapefruit and oranges are good to eat.

For Inner Goodness That Will Satisfy

Sealdsweet grapefruit and oranges may be depended upon. This inner goodness is the first aim of the co-operating growers who market their fruit through the Florida Citrus Exchange.

The same trees produce grapefruit and oranges that vary in outer appearance from bright and golden to russet, but are equally good inside. Buy for juiciness and sweetness rather than by color, using the Sealdsweet trade-mark as your guide.

Handsome Book As a Gift

"Florida's Food-Fruits", beautifully illustrated, contains directions for the use of Sealdsweet grapefruit and oranges in a multitude of ways. Send your name and address for gift copy.

Rich in Food and Health Values

The value of grapefruit and oranges, in calories or fuel units of food, has been amply demonstrated by medical and scientific research.

Now science has found these fruits equally rich in vitamins, the food elements essential to the perpetuation of life; vitamins making other food constituents available to the system.

It is the juice of grapefruit and oranges that contains the calories and the vitamins. Sealdsweet Florida fruits are heavy with juice, indicated by weight, hence their usefulness as food and for maintaining health.

Municipal Repair Shops a Failure

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Chicago's $2,700,000 municipal repair shops have been closed as a failure, it became known today, following an investigation by a committee of aldermen, because city work done there cost 300 per cent of what it would have cost on the outside. According to the aldermen's report, $5113.07 was spent in repairing six small cars in the course of a year.

To Prevent Overcrowding in Colleges

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—What he said might be established as a precedent in dealing with overcrowding in American colleges, was outlined by Ernest M. Hopkins, president of Dartmouth college, in addressing Dartmouth alumni at a meeting here last night. The qualifications for entrance were set forth, in part, by President Hopkins as follows: "On a basis of a combined set of qualifications which involve scholastic requirements such as are required in all eastern colleges; supplemented by geographical distribution, distribution by social groups and the vocational background of parents; the class of 500 out of Dartmouth next fall will be picked from four or five thousand applications." President Hopkins also said that evidences of outstanding character will be taken into consideration.

MYRTLE KLEIN'S THEATRE

Myrtle Klein, the master mentalist, who answers all questions, is the headliner at Keith's theatre this week. With an intense Indian atmosphere, redolent of the East, Myrtle is allied in the loose garments of the Orient, he stands before his audience and reads the answer to all matters that perplex in the crystal ball in his right hand. He also invites all who have questions of a more intimate nature to leave them at the box office to answer one and all. Myrtle's "Clairvoyance" is a little known, but extremely artistic in her buffoonery and versatility as well. The same evening, Myrtle's act is long enough, judging by her reception yesterday.

Thomas J. Ryan & Co., in the new "The Great Escape," present an excellent comedy playlet. Cecilia Holmes and Willie Crowley assist Mr. Ryan and are excellent support for the famous Irish comedian. Mrs. Holmes plays the role of his daughter excellently and Mr. Crowley is a comic singer. Mr. Ryan's dancing and a rather fast poker game feature the act, together with some witty dialogue.

Helene Hamilton and Jack Barnes in the latest version of "Just Fun" are well equipped with material. They put over a talking and singing act in first class fashion. Paul Murray and Gladys Carroll, in "The Singing Stars," give a number of excellent impersonations of musical comedy stars and sing the latest hits. Miss Carroll is an excellent

MELANCHOLY DUE TO THIN BLOOD

Nurse Followed Doctor's Advice and Complete Recovery Resulted

A decline in the general health, especially when the blood is thin, often produces a condition of melancholy and in which the patient is melancholy and dissatisfied, a condition that makes recovery more difficult. The remedy is to build up the blood as is shown in the case of a former nurse in Portland who followed her physician's advice and was restored to health.

"I was melancholy and uneasy," says Mrs. Annie K. Laughton of No. 19 Smith street, Portland, Me., referring to the breakdown in health from which she has recently recovered. "I believe the decline in my general health was due to overwork," she continued, "and I am sure that my blood was thin. I was tired all the time and could not seem to get over that worn, dragged out feeling. My appetite was nearly gone and nothing tasted good. My sleep was disturbed and did not refresh me."

"My physician recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and said they were just what I needed. I felt encouraged to give them a good trial because my mother in Portland had used them with good results and I had not taken them long before I noticed an improvement in my condition. I felt better, ate better and slept better. My strength returned and I had more ambition. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills proved to be just the tonic I needed and I am so grateful for what they did for me that I have recommended them to many others."

Write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a copy of the booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System." It contains a chapter on the home treatment of neurasthenia. The booklet is free and postpaid.—Adv.

er's action and also after being informed that he is becoming an outcast in society circles, leaves him and returns to her pitiful life. The story unfolds a tragedy that provides food for thought.

In "Conflict," Fredella Dean plays one of the most hazardous roles in her long career. She is seen in the northwest wilderness in a lumber camp, where she has taken refuge after being ill-treated at the home of her uncle where she was forced to live in order to fulfill the requirements of her father's will. The owner of the camp is made prisoner of her uncle's enemies just as he is about to conduct a log drive over a swift moving stream. The young woman, whose love for the owner of the camp is intense, takes his place as head of the working gang and in order to elude her pursuers, she dynamites the dam of the stream and later she is seen riding madly down the bank on horseback, going to rescue the man she loves. The climax of the play is reached when the young woman leaps perilously from log to log through the flow and succeeds in making a heroic rescue.

The program also includes a pleasing comedy, very interesting pictures of current events and enjoyable organ selections. The bill is one of the best shown in this city in a long time.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Miss Margaret Field, who has been playing leading parts in her company at the Opera house for the past several weeks, stepped out of the spotlight last night in the comedy "Turn to the Right," and gave her co-stars a chance to shine. That Miss Field has a fine supporting company was proven beyond all question of doubt by the manner in which the production was offered. First nights are always a bit difficult for performers, but the way in which this company worked last night would lead one to believe it had never played any other show but "Turn to the Right."

While Miss Field played a rather important part, cast as Miss Elsie Tilling, she was not called upon to demonstrate the acting Lowell theater folk know she is capable of.

In her place the leading female parts were carried by Anna Laying and Ruth Fielding. As "the mother," Mrs. Laying, while a bit sly for her part, made a fine impression on the audience, while Miss Fielding was strong in her characterization of Betty Bascom, the tongue-wagging little sister. Nan Crawford was not far behind her slanders in the quality of acting she exhibited while playing the part of Joe Strong.

As for the male members Harry Hollingsworth headed the list but while he was not "on stage," Vincent Denais, Kalamu Matus and Louis Albion made the appreciative audience think they were the only ones in the play. While fun he considered this trio was a riot and demonstrated they are as good a comedy three as walks the boards. Both Seth Arnold and William Warwick had really difficult parts but carried them off to perfection. The latter again proved his worth as a character man by playing both a lie-down pawn-shop owner and a detective. Robert Fay was cast in a minor role last night, but did everything expected of him.

The play opens with a prologue in which Mr. Hollingsworth, as "Pete," is shown in a pawn-shop selling a suit of clothes. He has just been released from Sing Sing prison after "doing" a year for a robbery he never committed, the facts of which are later brought out.

He meets his former prison pals Mugs (Mr. Denais) and Gilly (Mr. Matus) and tells them he is going to hit the straight and narrow. Here the prologue ends.

The first act is laid in Mrs. Bascom's kitchen where most of the characters are introduced. "Pete" turns out to be Joe Bascom, who left home 10 years before. He returns with a present for his mother (Miss Laying) just in time to prevent Deacon Tilling (Mr. Arnold) from completing a scheme to take the peach farm and Sam Martin (Mr. Albion) turns out to be a very worthy drummer of trade.

How Mrs. Bascom captures the hearts of the two former thieves; how Joe and Elsie are married; how Deacon Tilling is brought down to the right side as the peach business is made a success, all serve as actions to keep the audience on edge until the final curtain is rung down on a very clever electrical effect, showing an auto going over the hills to a house in the distance from which lights are flashed and extinguished as the occupants prepare to retire. The cast is as follows:

William Warwick ..... Joe Bascom, (Peter Turner).
Harry Hollingsworth ..... Vincent Denais
Kalamu Matus ..... Ruth Fielding
Betty Bascom ..... Anna Laying
Sam Martin ..... Louis Albion
Deacon Tilling ..... Seth Arnold
Lester Morgan ..... Robert Fay
Elsie Tilling ..... Margaret Field
Tom Callahan ..... William Warwick

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

D. W. Griffith's latest production, "Dream Street," the photoplay that has pleased millions throughout the country, continued its mission of pleasure at the Merrimack Square theatre yesterday afternoon and evening where it was shown before two enthusiastic audiences. The picture is at ways kept for a picture filled with romance, love and laughter and that presumption generally admitted has been particularly proved by the way "Dream Street" was received here. The ideas of this latest Griffith production, which abounds with romance and laughter, are original, while the characters are taken from two stories of Thomas Burke, "Gina of Chinatown" and "The Sign of the Lamp." Mr. Griffith has assembled a cast of rare talent to enact the roles of "Dream Street." Carol Dempster is played by Charles Emmett Mack. Tyrone Power is the symbolized street preacher for God, while the opposite part, that of the street hooligan of Pell is portrayed by Morgan Wallace. J. Ferguson is Gypsy's father and Edward Pell takes the role of Sway

Swann, the gentleman of noble Chinese birth. As for the scene of the play one needs naturally think of the title. The particular part of the drama which "Dream Street" deals consists of two of three streets, narrow and dirty, a waterfront theatre, a gambling den, a pawn-broker's shop, the room occupied by Gypsy and that of the two brothers and the home of a wily Original Sway Swann.

There is the street addler, whose degrading times incite the populace of the "Dream street" section to sin, furnishing the symbol of temptation, and there is Gypsy, the little daughter of the neighborhood. On the other hand, symbolizing conscience and good, there is the street preacher, who endeavors to lead the populace along the path of righteousness.

Leading among the activities of "Dream Street" one sees the two McFadden brothers, Spike and Blile, vibrating like a clock-pendulum between the forces of the Evil and the forces of the Good. The story that reveals their rising and falling in their pursuit of happiness is interestingly told with Gypsy Fair singing like a bright star throughout. The second big feature for the first part of the week at this popular amusement center is another thrilling picture, "Tricked," starring Irving Cummings, the noted star. "Tricked" is a dramatic story of the Great Northwest which is bound to please by its combination of forcefulness and simplicity. The bill is completed with an excellent exhibition of up to date events as gathered by International News.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $3.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup. To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pine in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure good and very pleasant—children take it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pine and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pine is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs. Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pine" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pine Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Balzac, Hugo, Ibsen and Sudermann, Screen Authors

MARION DAVIES
BY JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Helen Ingram is to make a special production of Victor Hugo's "Toilers of the Sea." It has not yet been determined whether it will be made here or abroad.

Ingram demonstrated her ability with "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "The Conquering Power." In her just completed "The Prisoner of Zenda," Hugo, Balzac and Ibsen—the classic element in this group of authors.

Nazimova has completed "A Doll's House" and is to do "Regina." They are the works of Ibsen and Sudermann.

The fact that works of these five authors are being converted to the screen seems to be answer sufficient to those who say there is no serious story merit in American films.

Censorship and Art

The current issue of the Nation contains editorial comment on the effect of censorship on the stage. It might as readily pertain to the screen.

"A stage that promises to keep clean and refined in the sense attributed to those words by the respectable majority of any moment in history is a stage that must avoid the now, close its doors to genius, deny the creative spirit and leaving itself on principle with rigidity and spiritual sloth," the writer declares.

"There is a public that wants Shakespeare, expurgated, that still thinks itself dangerously subversive, the great Russians, dangerously depressing and the great Germans dangerously banal. There is enormous public that wants nothing but the cheerful and refined, that mistakes art for soothing syrup.

"To silence the arts at all is to be in danger of silencing them altogether.

The article points out that the state would never appoint censors capable of distinguishing between a Shaw play and the lowest form of music hall comedy.

It is the view of this writer that state censors are political appointees, that there is little truth in politics and that art is truth. And therein is summed up the fallacy of censorship.

See America First

The one-hundredth scenic picture made by Robert C. Bruce was recently released by Educational. Bruce has made scenes in many parts of the world. He recently completed a series in the Rockies of the northwest and is now in New York. "I have found in the United States a beautiful scenery as can be found anywhere," he told me. "And it is a little known." Which is just another sermon on the familiar topic, "See America First."

At Studio Keyholes

Charles Hutchison's next serial is to be titled "The Cat-Fox Hunt." George Fitzmaurice will film exterior of his next picture in Egypt. Marguerite Marsh will be Dustin Farnum's leading lady in his next.

J. Gordon Edwards is cutting 125,000 feet of film he took for "Nero" to exhibition length.

Cloria Swanson will be starred in a film version of "The Love Dream," a musical comedy.

The Vitaphone production of "The Little Minister," starring Alice Catlow, played in 110 theatres in New York city in one week.

Judge J. V. Summerfield of the Los Angeles domestic relations court collaborated on the scenario of "Domestic Relations," Katherine MacDonald's next film.

Delegates to Washington Conference to Be Elected at Meeting of Disabled American War Veterans

Delegates to the national conference at Washington, Feb. 1, 2 and 3, will be elected at the regular meeting of Lowell chapter, 5 Disabled American Veterans of the world war to be held in Memorial hall this evening. Officers for the present year will also be nominated at tonight's session, while plans for a smoker on election night, the first Tuesday of February, will be discussed. All in all, this meeting should draw a 100 percent attendance considering the amount of important business that is to be taken up.

May Bar Exportation of Quail

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 17.—Exportation of the carcases of quail may be restricted by the minister of agriculture, as the result of protests from American game protective organizations, calling attention to the fact that 60,000 of the birds were received in New York recently. It was declared that continued slaughter of the birds might cause their extinction. The quail abound in the pampas, where they are hunted and killed with long whips, the hunters in many cases riding the birds down with horses.

Thieves Extend Operations in Germany

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—Sneak thieves, who have been active in the central section of Berlin nightly for a long time, have extended their operations into every suburb of the city, and have engaged in many battles with the police. They have carried off property of all kinds, even board fences, doors of houses, windows from closed dwellings and benches and chairs from the city parks. Scores of persons have reported the theft of chickens, pigs, goats, sheep, geese, ducks and doves. The increase in crime here is attributed by the police to the cold weather and the shortage of fuel and food.

Gas Fumes Cause Death of Boston Woman

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Gas fumes caused the death of Miss Ethel W. Mountain and drove nine families from their apartments on Hemenway street in the Back Bay district today. The gas was said to have leaked into the apartment house from a main in the basement. A newspaperman, returning home in the early morning, found the house filled with the fumes. All the occupants but Miss Mountain responded to the alarm. She was employed as a bookkeeper in an insurance office. A sister, Miss Letia Mountain, lives in Lynn.

Workers' International Conference

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 17.—Former Minister Stauning, on behalf of the Danish trade unionists, has telegraphed to Arthur Henderson and Ramsay MacDonald, British labor leaders, a request that a workers' international conference be called before the Genoa economic conference is held.

German Magnate to Expand in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 17.—Hugo Stinnes, the German industrial magnate, is believed to be planning to combine and expand his multiple interests in Argentina. Articles for the incorporation of the Sociedad Anonima Hugo Stinnes under the Argentine laws, have been submitted to the government authorities it is learned. The Stinnes interests include the development of petroleum and agricultural lands, lumber enterprises and importing organizations co-operating with the Stinnes steamship lines and factories in Germany under the same management. Stinnes' wife was a Uruguayan and their daughter was born in Montevideo.

Winter Colds and Chills Weaken the Kidneys and Are the Direct Cause of Many Serious Kidney Disorders.

IS winter-time your backache-time? Does every cold, chill or attack of grip leave you lame, achy and all worn out? Does your back throb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going another day?

Then look to your kidneys! Grip, colds and chills throw a heavy strain on the kidneys. They overload the blood with poisons and impurities that the kidneys have to filter off. The kidneys weaken under this rush of new work; become congested and inflamed. It's little wonder then, that every cold finds you suffering with torturing backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

But don't worry! Simply realize that your kidneys are overworked at such times and need assistance. Get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills today and give your weakened kidneys the help they need. Assist them also by drinking pure water freely, eating lightly, and getting plenty of fresh air and rest. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"I had severe pains in my back and was so sore and stiff I could hardly bend. If I took cold the trouble was worse. My kidneys acted too freely. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they regulated my kidneys and my back became strong and well." (Statement given May 4, 1917.)
Over four years later, or on Nov. 14, 1921, Mr. Dickey added: "Doan's Kidney Pills have kept my kidneys in the condition and I am glad to recommend them at every opportunity."

MRS. ORRIN ALLEN

"When I caught cold it settled on my kidneys and caused me to suffer from kidney complaint. My back was lame and sore and I felt out of sorts and run-down. My kidneys acted irregularly and I used Doan's Kidney Pills bought at Green's Drug Store for these attacks. They rid me of the backache and my kidneys acted properly. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

SWIG'S SON-IN-LAW HELD

Arrested in Boston on Charge of Receiving Bonds Stolen in Big Mail Robbery

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Through the arrest of Benjamin Greenberg of Hull on a charge of receiving stolen bonds the police said they hoped to locate in various Massachusetts cities bonds amounting to more than $100,000 that were part of the loot of a $350,000 mail robbery in Los Angeles last March.

Greenberg was arrested in the financial district while trying to negotiate a loan on two $1000 bonds which the police said had been identified as having been stolen in Los Angeles. They said he admitted having borrowed $4000 from a national bank in this city on bonds for $5000. Bonds to the value of $10,000 alleged to have been stolen at Los Angeles have been located at various other local banks according to the police. Greenberg was held in $25,000 bonds for a hearing today.

Greenberg is a son-in-law of Simon Swig, who was vice president of the Tremont Trust Co., one of the Boston banks closed by the bank commission last year. His arrest in the third transaction in charges of having stolen bonds from the Los Angeles robbery in his possession and is now awaiting action by the federal grand jury. Charles Solomon of Boston was also arrested on the same charge but was later released.

When Greenberg was taken into custody he had in his possession the police said, two $1000 bonds, an Ohio railroad $1000 bonds, upon which he was trying to negotiate a loan of $1400. The police claim these bonds numbered 2167 and 2168, are listed as among those stolen at Los Angeles. A default warrant dated 1917 was found pending against Greenberg as a result of charges of having stolen $238 in connection with his activities as agent for a New York "suit club" which sold tickets entitling holders of certain numbers to suits of clothes. He was given a suspended sentence at the time—promising to make restitution. He was held in $1500 in connection with this case in the municipal court late yesterday and then was turned over to the federal authorities.

On the charge of receiving and having in his possession the two Baltimore & Ohio railroad bonds he was held in $25,000 and taken to the East Cambridge jail, to await arraignment before a federal commissioner today. The police refuse to say whether Greenberg had disclosed where he got the stolen Los Angeles bonds. State Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen said he could not make a statement until he had the full police report before him.

Sanalt Relieved Awful Suffering from Sleeplessness

Any one who has suffered from insomnia, or sleeplessness, knows what intense agony there is for one who remains awake during the darkness and stillness of the night. Very often people who are afflicted by sleeplessness take narcotic drugs or stimulants, to secure only temporary relief, when they should find the cause of the sleeplessness and remove it.

One cannot expect to sleep peacefully when the stomach is distended by gas; the temperature is kept at fever heat through constipation, or nervousness as resulting from weak, watery blood.

Miss Sadie E. Welch, of 1705 Elm St., Manchester, N. H., says:

"I was suffering terribly from insomnia. Medicine the doctor gave me only made me sleep a little while at a time, and gave no real relief. When a friend recommended Sanalt, I did not see how it would help me, until it was called to my attention that I was suffering from stomach trouble and was very much constipated. So I was induced to try it. Before I had taken a full bottle, the constipation had passed; my stomach seemed all right, and although it at first rather surprised me to be able to sleep so well, I soon realized Sanalt had removed the troubles that kept me awake. As soon as I was again able to sleep I became much less nervous, and my appetite very rapidly improved. So I feel an everlasting debt of gratitude for Sanalt, and cannot praise it enough."

This is a good example of the necessity of people who are suffering trying to remove the cause, rather than the effect. There is only one way to MAKE a person sleep, and that is by drugging them, and of course if the sleeplessness is from a purely nervous trouble, from worry, or overwork, Sanalt alone will not relieve it, but in many cases sleeplessness comes from some trouble with stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, or blood, and for such sufferers from the terrors of insomnia, there is nothing better than Sanalt. All obliging druggists sell Sanalt.

Ten survivors of the crew were landed at Lowestoft by a trawler late this afternoon.

Details of the disaster as related by the captain of the Vesta are to the effect that during heavy weather Sunday night the deck cargo of the vessel, consisting largely of naphtha, shifted. An explosion occurred and a few minutes later the whole vessel was in flames, with the exception of the space near the bridge where the crew huddled for safety.

A boat was lowered, but it was engulfed in the heavy seas and its three occupants were drowned. The mate, clasp his newly married wife in his arms, jumped overboard. Both perished. Others of the ship's company also plunged into the sea from the now fiercely burning vessel only to sink beneath the waves. Finally only the captain and nine men were left on board. They were rescued after great difficulty by a trawler after six hours' work and when they had almost abandoned hope. Those rescued had been scorched by the flames and partially asphyxiated by the naphtha fumes.

LOWELL TOURISTS IN SUNNY FLORIDA

(Special to The Sun) ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 17.—Lowell's winter colony of tourists in St. Petersburg, Fla., was increased this week with the arrival of 11 who will spend the season here. Mr. and Mrs. Nobel H. Chardon of 55 Highland avenue, are spending their first winter in the "Sunshine City" and are located at 144 Twenty-third avenue, n. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nickerson of Lowell, are recent arrivals. Floyd C. Becharrell of 114 Wentworth avenue is stopping at the Hotel Hampton. Dr. and Mrs. G. M. Randall of Lowell are guests of the Hotel Central. Mrs. Frank A. Russell of 27 Royal street, is at 105 Sixth st., n. A. Sturgess of 558 Andover street, is making his first visit here and is located at 712 Seventh avenue, n. In direct contrast with the inclement weather prevailing in the northern states, Lowell tourists are enjoying a warm and balmy summer climate here, with a daily average temperature of 74 degrees. The sun has been shining every day without an exception since early November. Bathing beaches surrounding St. Petersburg are filled with bathers sporting in the warm waters of both Tampa Bay and the Gulf of Mexico.

CHELMSFORD WATER DISTRICT

Members of the Chelmsford water district held their annual meeting last evening with Walter Perham acting as moderator. Reports of the various departments were heard and Thomas H. Varnum, who a short time ago was appointed by the board to fill the unexpired term of Herbert P. Whipple as auditor, was confirmed. C. George Armstrong was re-elected a member of the board for three years while W. A. Parkhurst was re-elected clerk for one year. The board was authorized to borrow not more than $18,000 in anticipation of taxes. Very successful was the presentation of "The Time of His Life," which was very well presented last night by the senior class of the North Chelmsford high school. The parts were well sustained and the audience enjoyed it thoroughly. Those who figured in the cast were Lewis Peck, Blwyn McMaster, Ida Paignon, Anna Monahan, Gerald Miller, Catherine McPhillips, Harold Hoyd, Elmer Petrie and Leo McMillin. During the evening concert numbers were given by the high school orchestra. The singers were Ethel Carleton, Mary Dunigan, Helen Murphy, Olga Peterson, Morris Stanley, Kenneth Byam and William Helier.

conditions the wandering soldier found existing at home when he returned to this country; what he had expected and what, instead, he had found. Mr. Porter went on:

"I have heard and read recently the complaints of many returned soldiers, some poverty stricken, some out of strange loneliness. I can correctly work and some suffering from a say, comrades, that I am in a position to be sympathetic and that I completely espouse your cause.

"I fear, however, that I tend to become a victim of that dread disease too prevalent today, the disease of 'speechomania.' The symptoms of that disease are familiar to you all, a desire to speak at all times of everything and to every one under the sun.

"War is the disease confined entirely to our own sex. The women are falling victims. Only a few days ago certain women in Boston, took the public platform and declared it their duty to announce to the world that they no longer believed in love! Of course, doctors were called and it was found that the germ responsible for such a state of mind was a combination of old age and camouflage.

"Even the prohibitionists are not exempt. The pussy-footed saints, as they are called, who, prowling about, announce in personal and sepulchral tones the terrible results of taking a glass of wine in public or in good company at home. When called upon to describe their own collars their silence has become proverbial.

"My, but human nature changes very little! Do you remember how honest and numerous these speechomania were during the war? Pretending to be uplifters of the nation they sprang forth in every nook and cranny of the country holding meetings, giving five-minute speeches to the soldiers and fighting the war at a distance of 2000 miles.

"Let us regard for the moment the dream we all had previous to demobilization. We had fought for justice, for liberty, for all the things that civilized man considers of any value. Through our efforts and sacrifices these things were saved from complete annihilation. We looked forward to our return home confident that we would be accorded recognition, thanks, social position and other things generally considered worth while.

"When we did return home we entered an entirely new society, disrupted and threatened by Bolshevism. The very different problems of reconstruction faced the country clamoring for a solution. That general thought was given to other people, obligations laid hardly any to the new duties of the returned soldier, I am afraid is true. I am afraid that selfish sentiments were too prevalent among certain classes of demobilized soldiers. 'Why,' exclaimed these, 'should we be called upon for new sacrifices? Have we not done enough? Look at the profiteers; those who stayed at home and made fortunes while we were away.'"

"I ask you comrades to stifle such sentiments. Ignore the profiteers. They were common in every country and I suppose you had them in Lowell. But serious mention of their names is too great an honor to bestow upon them. Let them enjoy their fortunes if they can stand the odor of blood that taints every one of their dollar bills.

"For the sake of your country, for the sake of your loved ones at home, be as good a soldier as you were in the army. Let your officers be deserving of your consideration. Let there be such a feeling among you all that the cause of Jim becomes the cause of Jack. Unity, solidarity of views and complete co-operation are the essentials of such an organization as the American Legion.

"As members of the Legion you demand a situation and work for all veterans. But isn't it a fact that among those who left Lowell in 1917 as laborers there are many who have discovered that since their return nothing will suit them but the presidential chair?

"You have made claim upon your government for indemnities. But what good is effected by the indiscriminate distribution of sums of money among millions of men? In two months it would be spent and the same ailments and complaints would appear next fall. The cash plan in Canada was a complete failure. In an overwhelming majority of cases the recipients of the cash bonus refused to work until the money was spent and then they found themselves as helpless as ever.

"You have made claim for justice to all veterans of Lowell and yet I know you are already divided into groups as if it were right for some few to use the name and prestige of this organization to advance their own selfish interests.

"My suggestion for the cure of all these evils is one that has been tried successfully all through history. Let the government provide the needy ones with a piece of land. Cities are overcrowded. Factory life gives you a meager existence. Let the government give you land and a loan to get your farm started. They did this in Canada and out of 41,000 veterans who went to farming only eight were unable to repay the loans within the allotted time.

"In closing, comrades, let me remind you that even though you have lost many former advantages such as money and social position you still have your honor and with your honor you can recover everything you may have lost. If you persevere on the right road you may be sure that your government will not ignore the claims of an honorable soldier."

TO DARKEN HAIR.

APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not alful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

Regular progress without one set-back

COULD any mother ask more for her baby than steady normal progress right through the critical period of infancy?

Robert Beard's mother thinks not, for she has had that happy experience with her little son. Robert "never had a sick day," she says, in spite of "the intense heat" of last summer.

Robert has been fed on Borden's Eagle Brand Milk practically all of his life—and has thrived steadily. Thousands of other children healthy at birth, have developed into sturdy youngsters on Eagle Brand. Thousands more who were weak, undernourished, puny, have grown healthy and strong on it too. Doctors recommend it in stubborn feeding cases—it is so easily digested.

Don't experiment with foods of which you are doubtful. Borden's Eagle Brand Milk has been the standard baby food for three generations. For it is just pure milk and sugar—the natural food when mother's milk fails.

Prevent Children's Cold Troubles

When Kiddies Come In Wet and "Sniffing," Apply Vicks Over Throat and Chest to Keep Off a Cold

CHILDREN, as modern mothers know, should play outdoors daily. Colds result. How to treat colds without inward dosing, so disturbing to little stomachs, has been a problem.

Vicks answers this need. Applied externally, it can be used freely and often. Daytimes, the kiddies can continue their outdoor fun. Night-times, the windows can be opened wide, for, if the bed clothes are left loose about the child's neck, Vicks healing vapors will be inhaled until morning.

This direct treatment usually averts spasmodic croup, and if an attack does come on unexpectedly, the use of Vicks as directed frequently brings relief in 15 minutes.

Good for Grown-ups, Too

Vicks is effective in the same way for all the cold troubles of the family, grown-ups as well as kiddies—deep head colds, catarrh and asthma, deep chest colds, bronchitis, incipient pneumonia, tonsillitis, sore throat and "grippy" colds. Its penetrative and rubefacient action makes it useful for dozens of daily ills, such as bruises, burns, cuts, stings, and itching skin troubles.

The DIRECT Treatment for All Cold Troubles

ABSORBED, like a liniment, and, at the same time.

INHALED as a vapor, Vicks reaches immediately the congested air passages.

Vicks doesn't relieve every case. No remedy can do that. But it is successful in such a large percentage of cold troubles—from head colds and sore throat down to bronchitis or deep chest colds—that we have been able for years to make the following offer:

VICKS STANDING OFFER

Buy either the 35c, 75c or $1.50 size. Use all or part of it. If you are not delighted with the results, mail us the top of the carton and the purchase price will be cheerfully refunded. Or, if you wish to try Vicks before you buy, mail the coupon below for a free sample.

How Vicks Should Be Used

For Spasmodic Croup, Children's Colds—Rub Vicks over the throat and chest until the difficult breathing is relieved, then spread on thickly and cover with a hot flannel cloth. One application at bed time usually prevents a night attack of croup.

For Deep Chest Colds, Sore Throat, Tonsillitis, Bronchitis, Coughs—Vicks should be applied over the throat and chest—if necessary, first using hot, wet cloths to open the pores of the skin—then rubbed in well until the skin is red; spread on thickly and covered with one or two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. If the cough is annoying, a small piece the size of a pea can be swallowed every few hours.

For Head Colds, Asthma, Catarrh, Hay Fever—Vicks should be melted in a spoon and the vapors inhaled, or a little can be applied up the nostrils and sniffed up the head.

Used as a Liniment, Poultice or Plaster—On account of its penetrative and rubefacient effect on the skin, Vicks has been found excellent for many minor ailments, such as Bites, Boils, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Frost bite, Itchings, Muscular Soreness, Poison Ivy, Sunburn, Headache and Sore Calloused Feet.

SAVE THE FEDERAL RESERVE

A movement is now on foot at Washington and largely over the western states to secure the appointment of a representative of the farming interests of the country upon the Federal Reserve board. This movement has been taken up by what is known as the Agricultural Bloc for the purpose of securing from the Federal Reserve bank long time loans for farmers. With this end in view, great pressure is brought to bear upon President Harding to appoint a farmer to the Federal Reserve board. The president has already declared that he will oppose the proposition and the advisory council of the board has come out with a strong protest against any interference with the government of the system that would place it under political control and destroy its general usefulness and its ability to carry out the purposes for which it was established.

The Federal Reserve board has carried this country through the different periods of the war without a panic; and but for it, we should probably have had one of the worst panics ever experienced by the nation. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that an institution that has given such stability and elasticity to our currency, shall be maintained and upheld without any interference from the political or other blocs that would endeavor to divert it from its main purpose and use it for their own special benefit.

It must be evident that if the funds of the Federal Reserve board were held frozen in long time loans to farmers it could not come to the assistance of financial institutions as it has done when they were threatened with disaster, although perfectly solvent but unable to meet the demands made upon them in an emergency.

It is expected that the financial interests of the country will strongly oppose any movement that would threaten the stability and usefulness of the Federal Reserve system. If a farmer should be appointed to the board there would be no reason why the manufacturers should not also be represented and if these interests, then why not the laboring people? If the system were placed under political control, it might as well be abolished and let Wall Street return again to control of the country's finances with the power to produce a panic whenever the financiers deemed it beneficial to their interests.

CHARTER AMENDMENTS

Measures are now before the legislature calling for certain changes in the charter. One of these is by Rep. Henry A. Smith and provides that the city shall have the power to fix the hours during which the polls shall be open for the primaries. The charter provides that the polls shall open at noon, which, of course, is a mistake as was realized in the first primary election held under the charter.

Another amendment would restore the recall. Some surprise was expressed when the legislative committee dealing with the new charter eliminated the recall provision on the ground that it is impracticable. It is not impracticable if there is a strong sentiment behind it. The only time when it is impracticable is when some little clique having a grievance, starts a petition for a recall. No community is likely to apply the recall without good and sufficient reason.

Another proposed change is, that in future the nomination of candidates for municipal offices shall be made in party primaries. There may be some objection to any movement favoring a return to party politics in municipal affairs. We feel, however, that it would be better to have some responsible organization to put forward the best candidates available than to allow the matter to go by default and leave the electorate to act blindly in selecting the candidates from among those who voluntarily present themselves. Two opposing political parties would always try to put forward their best men and each would be in a measure responsible for their elected officials.

This city has never been able to secure such a high average of efficiency in public officials since the party system was abolished. We realize that there should be no party lines drawn in city affairs, but it would be better to return to the old system than to have city elections decided upon religious or racial lines.

It is not likely that the legislature will favor any such radical change in the new charter so soon after its adoption as it is about the general policy of cities to follow party lines in their municipal politics.

BUREAUCRACY DENOUNCED

President Butler of Columbia university in his annual report deals with the dangerous movement known as bureaucracy at Washington. As a result of the war, this delegation of governmental functions to different boards or commissions has assumed alarming proportions. It is stated that in addition to the ten departments under the cabinet, there are over 100 bureaus, commissions, boards, corporations, councils and academies, all maintained at the expense of the government and each supposed to have a separate function, although many of them have nothing whatever to do except a mere portion of the work that should come under the general departments.

Of late years, reformers who think they have an idea that would help the country or bring their names into prominence, rush to congress and introduce a bill to establish some new bureau to relieve what is represented as an existing evil or to meet what they deem to be a long felt want. When these so-called reformers get going, they find no difficulty in presenting an excuse for favoring some such measure. We have had several instances bearing upon education, domestic affairs and others of the most vital character put forward in a manner that could not fail to entrench upon the sovereign rights of the state.

Of late it seems merely a joke to talk of state sovereignty. Washington seems to have become an imperial power that concerns itself with the private business of the people in every state and even sends its police into the states to enforce this overlordship and often in open conflict with state authorities even in their domestic affairs. It is no wonder, therefore, that President Butler uses his power of invective in assailing this particular evil. In reference to the proposition to put the educational system of school children throughout the country under a bureau at Washington, he says:

"There is not money enough in the United States, even if every dollar of it were expended in education, to produce by federal authority or through what is naively called co-operation between the federal government and the federal states, educational results that would be at all comparable with those that have already been reached under the free and natural system that has grown up among us."

Prof. Butler, however, hits his strongest blow when he asserts that in defiance of our federal system of government, Washington is building a system of bureaucracy that will put to shame the best efforts of the czars of Russia in that direction.

JAPAN'S OBSTINACY

Japan is hedging on the Shantung question just as she did on the reduction of her navy, but to a greater extent. She is willing to yield certain encroachments on conditions that are wholly unacceptable.

"This is equivalent to a refusal, and is opposed to the policy of the powers in favor of the territorial integrity of China. What Japan claims to most tenaciously is the German leasehold rights taken over during the war. These include possession of the harbor of Kiaochow, which is one of the most secure for a naval retreat in case of war that could be found anywhere on the globe.

The entrance is as narrow as that of the Bosphorus and the enclosed bay is quite spacious. It is the outlet for the great railroad system reaching the interior of China and extending north into Siberia. Japan controls this railroad to Tsinan, a distance perhaps of 600 miles inland. It is the importance of this impregnable naval haven and its rail connection with a richly productive country that causes Japan to baffle and make various excuses for not keeping her promise to vacate Shantung. This is but another proof of the militaristic aims of Japan and her designs on China. She could defend the harbor of Kiaochow against the combined fleets of all the other powers of the world. The fort of Tsing-tao at the entrance of the harbor is one of great importance.

All the concession that Japan is willing to make in reply to the demand of the United States, England and France is, that China may have joint ownership providing Japan shall have entire control of the railroad with mining privileges for coal and iron on either side along its route. That shows very clearly the intentions of Japan. She will not cease to encroach on China; she will not yield to the powers that promised to maintain the integrity of China, and she will not relinquish her hold on the territory she has acquired in China.

BRITISH EVACUATION

Dublin castle has been turned over to the provisional government of Ireland and great is the rejoicing thereat. Well may the people rejoice to see it evacuated by the British forces and placed in control of Richard Griffith and Michael Collins as heads of the new Irish government. The Irishmen who have been on the run for the past several years, can now sleep in peace in their own homes without fear of being dragged from their beds to be shot like dogs. The British soldiers are still doing this kind of work, but they will very soon desert as we believe that province will enter the new Irish Free State out of regard for its own economic interests if for no other cause.

This is undoubtedly the dawn of a new era for Ireland and one that is sure ultimately to bring peace, prosperity and contentment to her people.

DRIVE FOR PRODUCTION

With manufacturers the great problem is to get prices down to a figure that will induce the people to buy. Some men are able to figure their way out and others are not. It all depends upon the business and the circumstances under which it is conducted.

One of the great aims in, to keep down the overhead charges in relation to the general output. If a given plant can turn out say a hundred units per day; the percentage of overhead charges will be greatly reduced if the output be increased to 200 or 300 units, even if the force of labor is increased accordingly.

Take a real example obtained from a coal mine. If 75 tons were mined daily the labor cost was $2 per ton and 60 cents overhead charges; but if 300 tons were mined; the labor cost was $1.25 per ton and the overhead charges 15 cents a ton. Even that small margin in a manufacturing business would mark the difference between success and failure.

No Golden Silence

"You're forever trying to give the impression that you're a martyr," snapped Mrs. Peck. "I suppose you want everybody to think that you suffer in silence?" "No," replied Mr. Peck. "I suffer in the person of absence of silence. A little silence would be a positive pleasure to me."

Valuable Information

Broadway was beginning to line up along the curbs in anticipation of the arrival of one of the distinguished European war heroes coming here to participate in the limitation of armaments conference. Some one approached a policeman standing at the side of the street, with the interrogation, "What's the crowd waiting for?" "Don't you read the papers?" was the reply. "Gen. Beatty is coming."

Chimney Vices

Defective chimneys and flues caused a loss, by fires, of $71,937.084 worth of dwelling houses in the last six years, says an insurance organization. That's only a part of the story, for it doesn't include property not insured. Observe that all these fires were preventable. So, for that matter, are practically all fires. Inspect your chimney. If it gives out, it may catch fire. Often the chimney soot can be removed by burning some potato peelings.

Important News

The small boy in the omnibus was wringing with impatience. He was clearly bursting with important information, and nobody would pay him the slightest attention. He pulled at his mother's handbag—who went on talking to his aunt. He kicked his feet against her skirts, he joggled her elbow. "Well, what is it?" she said at last. "I've lost my school bag, and our school have got cold!"

Bucket Shops

The editor of the Magazine of Wall Street is conducting a campaign against "the bucket shop evil." Amen! say all of us. But neither regulation nor taxation will end the bucket shop evil. The real problem is the suckers who patronize the bucket shops. Take the ticker office from them and they'd go out and bet that the sun won't rise tomorrow. One man every minute was true when Adam was alone in the garden. Now it has to be multiplied by thousands.

A Moralless Tale

He did his little task so well, was so meticulously careful, in far more ways than one may tell that chap was really a moralist. That when promotions had to be made, he'd always been the one to fill a higher place they'd move some less snuggly chap than he into the bigger, bigger groove.

They figured thus: "He fits that niche as though he had been born to fill it. He'll be a splendid addition to the staff. We'll not be best to scratch him, will we?"

And so he kept the place he filled in that snuggly manner. Because they did not think he would "go plant on higher peaks his banner. No moral grows this year, I tell you. The more truthfully to the matter, he filled a third-class job so well they never offered him a better.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

A few shovels full of snow tossed in certain spots on Centralville bridge would obviate a hindrance to horses, which have been noticed in crossing the structure several times of late. But yesterday morning I noticed a faithful horse, tugging at a loaded sleigh, which refused to slide because of the absence of snow in the middle of the bridge. "Old Dobbin" was giving everything he had in him in an effort to pull the load, but it wouldn't budge. I did not realize the force of the outburst of the horse's efforts, but realized the whole situation could be remedied if, from time to time, a little snow were thrown on the bridge.

An interesting side-light on Soviet Russia's attitude toward capitalists allowed to invent money in that country was given in a meeting in Lowell, recently. The Russians were said to be taking advantage of the organizing skill of "capitalism" to start the industries going and produce numbers of trained men as foremen. They will then have to get workers and these will be recruited from the villages. The workers will be organized into unions and given rifles. If necessary, it will then be easy to answer the question: "Who is in control, the capitalists or the workers?" For this reason capitalists have been invited to Russia according to the story. There present seemed to think this a very good solution for the Russian economic problem, for when conditions were taken, starting with the respectable sum of $25, the rate had to be reduced to 15 before anyone stepped forward; there was but one contributor even at this bargain rate. A few shovels full of snow, very low in fact, were donated, and in the silver collection, although the men on the platform called for nothing less than dollars, the contributions were "less ambitious" and said "nothing too small or too large."

A book written by the speaker and offered for the extremely low price of 50 cents a copy for a few takers. Thus it appears that the Soviet sympathizers in this city are not sufficiently interested to contribute much to its support. Mr. Foster's mission here did not prove a glowing success.

An Aid to Wearing This Season's Fashions

(Helps to Beauty)

Here is a simple, unfailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs. With some powdered talcums and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about 3 minutes rub off, wash and skin and every trace of hair is gone. This is a harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the talcums in an original package.—Adv.

U. S. REGAINING MENTAL POISE

Vice Pres. Coolidge Sees a Renewed Hope for Welfare of the World

Country Leading Nations in One of Greatest Liberal Movements of Mankind

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—America is regaining its mental poise, re-establishing its economic stability and leading the nations in one of the great liberal movements of mankind, Vice President Calvin Coolidge in an address last night, told the Philadelphia Forum. "American," he said, "could survey the developments of the last year without a renewed faith in the financial strength and the moral vigor of the nation and a renewed hope for the welfare of the world."

"There have been doubts," the speaker said, "but they are being solved. There have been trials, but they are passing away. The hand of man is passing again to industry. Men and nations are coming closer and closer to the harmonious relationship of peace." Through a series of fortunate circumstances America has been permitted to recover first from the disastrous results of the war, Mr. Coolidge said. "But," he added, "the great accomplishment we ought not to turn to great discouragement, but to great confidence. If ever there was a time, that time is now when the people of America and of all the earth ought to feel with increasing warrant, that they are establishing the possession of the power to do and dare. This process has already begun. No one who knows America could doubt that not for long will she refuse to face facts with a clear vision or lack for confidence or courage."

The vice president also recounted the noteworthy acts of the administration in Washington. In touching upon the work of the cabinet, he said that by reorganization it is hoped to co-ordinate and unify the work of these departments so that they will neither overlap nor be hampered by functions which should be performed by some other department.

"It is expected," he declared, "that a reorganization will not only make a considerable saving at once, which will enlarge as time goes on, but cause a more effective administration of all the activities of the government."

Mr. Coolidge outlined the expected results from legislation enacted by the last and present congress, paying particular attention to the tax revision, and reviewed the activities of the board studying the tariff, railroad and merchant marine measures.

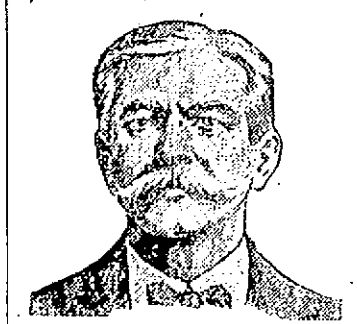

He outlined the equipment of shipyard will have to stand side by side with the equipment of training camps," he said. "But this great fleet of vessels is a large and ought to be, a valuable asset. If America wants a fleet, surely it can have one, but it cannot be had without making the most of the equipment to maintain it. America has felt the importance and humiliation of being denied access to the sea. It has borne the almost unbelievable expense of putting into the construction of a fleet in a few months about one-sixth of all it had put into the construction of railroads in two generations. It is a less expensive and better national policy to maintain a fleet in time of peace than to be compelled to build one in time of war."

In reviewing the Washington arms conference, the speaker said:

"It will be noted that the list of positive accomplishments has been steadily increasing. To the agreed limitation of capital ships, the peace-promoting provisions of the four-power treaty, there has been added the declaration against the use of the submarine as a commerce destroyer and the prohibition of the use of poisonous gases. Along with these have gone limitations as to the size and armament of auxiliary craft. The settlement of conflicting interests in Yap and the mandated islands north of the equator, the

Rapidly by Taking Vinol After Everything Else Had Failed

H. J. MOORE

Noroton Heights, Ct.—"I am a carpenter, and got all run down and contracted a chronic cough, so I could hardly keep about my work. It seemed as though I had tried all kinds of medicine without help, but one day I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it. Before I had taken half a bottle I felt better and after taking six bottles I found I had regained my normal weight and never felt better in my life."—H. J. Moore, Noroton Heights, Conn.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the curative elements of cod liver oil in a highly concentrated form, together with Iron and Beef Peptides which for centuries have been known to a poor for such conditions. Price $1.00 a bottle, guaranteed.—Adv.

MAUDE ADAMS GIVES BIG ESTATE TO CATHOLICS

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Maude Adams, Protestant actress, has given her $130,000 country estate at Lake Ronkonkoma, L. I., to the Roman Catholic Sisters of Our Lady of the Convent.

Miss Adams, who has not appeared on the stage for several years, became interested in retreats conducted by the sisters for secular women and while in this city was accustomed to stay at the convent of St. Regis in West 140th street.

When knowledge of Miss Adams' gift became public yesterday, it was learned that she had offered her estate about a year ago, to enable the sisters to enlarge its work.

Before permission could be obtained from Bishop McDonnell to accept the gift he died. A week ago the matter was brought to the attention of Bishop Kollig and he immediately gave his approval.

The estate, situated in one of the finest sections of Ronkonkoma, consists of a large stone residence, several outbuildings and 300 acres, extensively developed and designed by prominent architects and landscape gardeners.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ALL SOULS CHURCH

Reports for the year just closed were read, officers elected for 1922 and plans outlined for another successful year's work in religious activities at the annual meeting of All Souls church last evening. Judge Frederic A. Fisher presided and Joseph W. Peabody officiated as clerk. Supper preceded the business session.

The old officers were returned to office with the exception of Miss Mildred Nelson of the standing committee, who is now absent from Lowell. Miss Nelson is succeeded by Mrs. Theodore B. Parker. Winslow B. Clark will continue to preside over this body.

Committee reported an increase in church membership, better condition in church finances and a widened scope of night activities. An interesting report came from the pastor, Rev. A. C. McGiffert, Jr., who outlined plans for carrying on parish work in the next 12 months.

BORROW MONEY TO BUILD HOMES

A copy of a bill introduced into the legislature, which, if passed, will allow Lowell people to borrow money from the city for the purpose of erecting homes, has been received by City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney. The bill provides that cities and towns may borrow in excess of their statutory limit of indebtedness to an amount not to exceed 1 per cent of the assessed valuation to provide money for any of their citizens who wish financial assistance in building homes. Approval of the city solicitor and city building inspector first must be secured before the money is loaned.

WIRELESS FOR FIRE STATION

The Central fire station in Billerica Centre may soon be equipped with wireless telephone apparatus. The scheme was proposed several weeks ago and has been generally approved. It is planned to raise funds for purchasing apparatus by conducting dancing and other social events. To help along the proposition, the selectmen have offered the free use of the town hall for the events. Fire department officials believe wireless phones would add materially in sending in prompt fire alarms. A number of other cities and towns in New England are employing the wireless signal with good results, Billerica citizens say.

HIG BASKETBALL GAME

What promises to be one of the biggest games of the season will be played tonight in the C.Y.M.E. hall. The Lyceum team will have as their opponents an all star team composed of McCann and Keenan of the Y.A.C.C. The Lyceum old rivals, the Eyes of the Lyceum, McDonald and McGuire of the Sacred Heart Ave. will also be in the lineup. The basketball fans of Lowell who remember the games played between the Y.A.C.C. and the Lyceum will see tonight a repetition of the old rivalry. As an added attraction there will be dancing after the game.

Berton Braleys Daily Poem As ONE DAD SEES IT

I do not want my children to think of me with awe, A stern, dogmatic parent whose very word is law, But rather as an older pal whose wide experience Has given to him, by and large, a modicum of sense, Then they can take my counsel and see that it is fair! And in whatever they may do I'll have a chance to share; I hope that they can say of me—I ask no sweeter fame—"Father is a sportsman and he always plays the game!"

I want to be their playmate, I want to help them learn The fine and honest code of sport; I want their hearts to burn With zeal to win each contest, but to win it clean and straight, Or lose it—if they're beaten—without whimpering at fate; I can't do that by precept, for the precept would be vain Unless my own example made the lesson very plain, I can't do otherwise if I would hear my children claim "Father is a sportsman and he always plays the game!"

From crooked deals in business, from doubtful devious tricks, From slightly questionable acts in trade and politics, From various hypocrites and sophistries and lies Which what we call society too often justifies— From these, dear Lord, deliver me! I want my kids to say "The old boy made a record which we needn't hide away, He didn't ask for favors and he faced life as it came, Father was a sportsman and he always played the game!"

IRISH DELEGATES
IN LONDONDuggan and O'Higgins Confer
With British Cabinet on
New Irish GovernmentInitial Steps Taken Yesterday
When Collins Took Over
Dublin Castle

LONDON, Jan. 17.—Details incident to the transfer of authority in southern Ireland from the crown government to the provisional administration established in Dublin on Saturday, were considered here today. Eamon J. Duggan and Kevin O'Higgins, delegates of the Irish provisional government, arrived in London to confer with the members of the British cabinet relative to the investment of the new regime with governmental responsibility.

Initial steps in the establishment of the new provisional government of the Irish free state headed by Michael Collins were taken at Dublin yesterday, when a proclamation was issued, announcing the provisional government had entered upon its duties under the treaty with Great Britain. The war office has announced that withdrawal of British forces in southern Ireland will commence immediately and that the men will be moved as rapidly as conditions permit.

The Morning Post, a newspaper which has steadfastly shown hostility to Irish home rule and has upheld the principle of unionism, today printed the following despatch from its Dublin correspondent. "The provisional government will make a great mistake if it does not level Dublin Castle to the ground. There is an evil spell upon it, and its spirit is quite as capable of destroying the Irish free state as it was of destroying the union with England. Certainly, nobody who has believed in that union would weep if the castle should crumble to dust. Its spirit of intolerant bureaucracy, the type of politician that it harbored and the kind of administrators it bred, did more to destroy the union than agitators and treason-mongers.

"When the exodus begins, the fastnesses of Dublin Castle will disgorge high salaried officials who have not done a stroke of honest work in years."

FINED FOR KEEPING GAMBLING MACHINE
Arraigned for unlawfully keeping a slot gambling machine, John Jensen, proprietor of a coffee house at 81 Dummer st., pleaded ignorance before Judge Enright in district court today. He stated that the machine had been left there by a man who had assured him that it was "all right" and that was all he knew about it. That was not substantial defense, however, the court finding him guilty and imposing a fine of $50.

The gambling machine was seized by Patrolmen Moore and Conroy of the vice squad late Saturday night. The apparatus was exhibited in court and operated. In fact it was found to be in perfect working order for when Patrolman Conroy inserted a nickel in the slot and pressed a lever four brass discs, each one marked "good for five cents in trade" came out of a receptacle in the bottom of the machine.

For violating a city ordinance in that he coasted on a sled in Fifth street, a Centralville boy was picked on probation for a year and given a severe call-down by the judge. The youth was arrested by Sgt. Brawley who testified that the defendant had not been working for months and had been causing trouble in the Lakeview avenue district. "You better take care," the court admonished him, "and a job and reform or I'll send you to Shirley the next time you're brought here."

Turning to the policeman, the justice advised them to halt into court some of the other alleged "roughnecks" who were reported to have been causing disturbances in that section.

In a continued drunkenness case from yesterday Joseph Smith was fined $5, which he paid.

TEAMSTERS HONOR THOMAS GARVEY
Members of Teamsters' union, 88, employed as drivers and helpers in the department of ash collection, yesterday presented Thomas F. Garvey, foreman at the health yard, a traveling bag, a pair of fur-lined driving gloves, a silk umbrella, and an amber stem meerschaum pipe as expressions of their high regard for him.

The occasion was the physical transfer of the men of the ash collection department from the health department to the street department and in so doing, Mr. Garvey no longer will be their foreman. Hereafter they will work under the direction of Sutton Wilson, recently appointed by Mayor Brown as superintendent of ash collection.

Mr. Garvey felt that it was a particularly fine and thoughtful thing for his men to do and although the presentation of the gifts came as a surprise to him, he expressed his sincere appreciation.

BURCH JURY DISAGREES

Fails to Agree on Verdict

After 7½ Hours' Deliberation—Stood 10 to 2

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 17.—The date of a second trial of Arthur C. Burch, indicted for the murder of J. Dalton Kennedy, was expected to be set today in superior court, where yesterday a jury of 10 women and two men reported a disagreement and was discharged after a trial lasting eight weeks.

The vote on the final ballot was 10 to 2 for conviction, jurors said. It was expected the second trial would follow that of Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, indicted with Burch, which is set to begin February 6.

"I am going to keep after Burch until I get him," declared Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney.

Mayor Brown said today that in addition to the name of Edward F. Mulvey for superintendent of charities, he will nominate city P. F. Mulvey, a superintendent of the meetings and another assessor at the meeting of the city council Thursday night.

While the mayor would not name his nominees, he did say that neither Francis A. Warnock nor John Y. Myers, each of whom the council refused to confirm at its last meeting, has requested him to again stand in his name for the offices of superintendent of buildings and purchasing agents, respectively.

CONTEST WILL OF NELLIE McCANNA

A petition for the allowance of the will of Nellie McCanna, who died at Ayer May 6, 1920, was filed with the probate court this morning by Julia Gilbert of Chalmersford, who has taken care of deceased up to the time of her death, and, who according to the will, is the sole heir of the estate, which amounts to about $5000. The will is being contested by several who claim to be heirs at law, and by the representatives of Rose Carney, a former resident of this city, who left Lowell for Ireland about a year ago and whose present whereabouts is not known.

Rose Carney is represented by Daniel J. Donahue, while the other contestants are represented by Frank Goldman and a couple of out-of-town lawyers. Those who oppose the will have their claim on the fact that they were related by blood to deceased, although it is contended that Rose Carney is the nearest relative. Lawyer Donahue stated this morning that every attempt possible has been made during the past six months to locate the Carney woman, but all efforts have proven futile. He said it may be that the woman lost her life in the uprisings that have taken place in Ireland, but he requested the court to continue the hearing in hopes that the woman may be located.

Others who are contesting the will on the ground of relationship are John A. Carter, Charles H. Carter, Joseph A. Carter, all of Wilton, N. H., Annie Burrows of Malden, Mary French of Dering, N. H., and Lizzie Mulhall of Andover, N. H. At the request of counsel, the hearing was continued to a later date.

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 17.—Satisfaction that the international joint commission's report has found the Great Lakes Waterway project feasible was expressed in a statement today at the headquarters of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tide Water Association here. The statement followed announcement from Washington yesterday that President Harding had submitted to congress the report of the international joint commission.

"Formation of a legislative program by the friends of this project in congress will be eagerly expected," the statement said. "It means a light."

BALLADS OF BASEBALL

THE PIKER

The bally piker gets my goat, who bets a measly dollar upon a baseball game, and losing it, starts in to snort that baseball is a crooked sport, and nothing but a frame.

The true fan in the bleacher sits applauding skillful plays and hits—they bring sweet joy to him, while Mister Piker damns the luck unless he wins the measly buck to pad his bankroll slim.

With honesty, a virtue lost, he says, "All baseball games are tossed!" that is his mournful moan; he's always willing to confide the mortar is all set and dried before a ball is thrown.

Oh, piker, while you rant and cry, don't judge the baseball diamond by the diamond on your paw; the diamonds of the tenements, the minor leagues and big league tents, have in them not a flaw.

What is the one great weakness of major league baseball at the present time?

That is an easy one. Unquestionably it is pitching. The batters have the edge by a wide margin.

The supremacy of the batter, however, is always short-lived. In two or three years the pitcher will again be on top.

All of which brings us to the question: What is the matter with the pitching? That is as easy of solution.

Lack of a good curve ball is the fault of seventy per cent of the present-day major league pitchers. It has become a lost art with some of them.

The era of freak pitching, plus the impression that a curve ball is hard on the arm, has had much to do with the passing of the curve from the repertoire of a great many pitchers.

The freak delivery was a creation of the fast ball. In using the ordinary ball, the mud ball, or any of the other so-called freaks, the fast ball was necessary to get the break.

While these deliveries were tolerated a great many pitchers shifted their loyalty to the fast ball. Incidentally, for years there has been a growing impression among pitchers that the curve ball was very bad on the arm. Those who think have caused the temporary downfall of the "hook."

Fifteen years ago practically every major league pitcher boasted of a good curve ball. Today the curve of a great many pitchers does little more than twist. One good curve ball pitcher on a staff is about the average.

In the world series of 1921 the potency of the curve ball was apparent. Barnes, Douglas and Neff of the Giants set down the Yankees without much trouble, and all three used a curve ball to decided advantage.

I never saw a pitcher have a better curve than did Barnes in the big series. Douglas and Neff were not far behind. The Yankees expected spiltball pitching from Douglas and were entirely quiet when Douglas used a curve ball almost exclusively.

It was the same on the side of the Yankees. Hoyt, who had such great success against the Giants, is one of the best curve ball pitchers in the American league. Carl Mays, in addition to his peculiar underhand delivery, also makes use of a curve.

I have talked with a number of the great curve ball pitchers of the old days, and all of them say the arm of a curve does not injure the arm if properly delivered.

When these wild balling-cries are stopped, it will be curve ball pitching that turns the trick.

NO "ANNIE OAKLEY" FOR BATTING NELSON

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Oscar Matthew (Battling) Nelson, former lightweight champion of the world, is out $3.50, the price of two tickets for a boxing contest. It's the first time he has been forced to dig into his pockets to see a fight.

Nelson, with his little brother, Bat, Jr., presented himself for the usual passes. "Who are you, that you should get passes?" queried the man in the ticket cage. "What have you done for boxing?"

"Who, me? I'm Bat Nelson," shouted the former titleholder.

"That racket, don't go here. Lay down the dough."

Nelson, mumbling words of disgust, produced the $3.50.

"What do you think of that? Bat Nelson forced to pay to see a fight," was the veteran's parting shot.

MINERS TO TAKE UP NEW WAGE AGREEMENT

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Jan. 17.—A convention of miners, representing all the organized mine workers in the anthracite field, called to consider a new wage agreement, convened here today. The present working contract expires March 31.

The convention, according to the officers of the union, will ask for an increase in wages of about 20 per cent. It also will ask that wage rates be made uniform throughout the anthracite field as far as possible and that the hours of men working more than eight a day be reduced. A demand for the establishment of the check-off system also will be made.

It is generally understood in the coal fields that the mining companies will ask the men to take a reduction.

HARDING PRAISES WORK

Development of Highway System One of Country's Greatest Improvements

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—No public improvement has done more for the general good of the country than development of the highway system, according to a letter from President Harding to Col. H. L. Hawley, president of the American Road Builders' association today at the opening session of the national good roads congress.

"There is now pretty nearly universal agreement that no single public improvement has done in recent years, or will do in coming years, more for the general good of the country than the development of our highway system," President Harding's letter said.

Prior to assembling, it was said, more than 10,000 delegates were in Chicago, representing every state government and mayors of 4730 cities and towns.

COURT ISSUES WARNING TO AUTOMOBILISTS

Judge Thomas J. Enright in district court this morning stated that automobilists who haven't yet complied with the law by obtaining their 1922 registration plates will hereafter be taken to court and there convicted as the statute provides. His honor said he had received a number of complaints to the effect that some motorists were still operating their machines with last year's license numbers. Although he has recommended heretofore that they be given more time in which to secure the new plates the time has come now when no more leniency should be shown.

"They must comply with the law," the judge observed, "and I will see that these alleged violators are brought here and convicted for they have been given every opportunity to comply with the requirements of the state highway commission."

FUR BUYERS PREDICT RECORD HARVEST

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Fur buyers in the Adirondacks declare the present season will be marked by the largest harvest of pelts on record, with the trappers receiving approximately $1,500,000 for their catch.

In 1919, the bumper year until now, when unusually high prices were paid for furs, the trappers realized more than $1,000,000.

Last year prices declined appreciably, owing to the fact that the warehouses were overstocked.

Furriers say the skins are being brought this year in great quantities. The number of mink, skunk and fox pelts already received is far above normal. Prices paid by fur buyers are 50 per cent higher than last year, depending on the condition of the skins.

Practically all good pelts are taken in traps, although a large number of fox skins brought in by hunters have netted a good return.

Fur-bearing animals are reported plentiful in all sections of the Adirondacks.

LOWELL HIGH WILL MEET READING HIGH

The Lowell high school's basketball team will take on the Reading high team tomorrow in the first of two games to be played between these two teams. Coach McIntyre's boys are working hard in preparation for this game as they realize they will be called upon to face a little stronger opposition in this contest than in previous games. However, the practice sessions are developing teamwork, a factor which was slightly missing in the opening contests, and when the boys take to the boards against the down-country outfit tomorrow they promise to exhibit a smooth working combination.

HANGS HIMSELF IN CELL

Chamberlain Charged With Implication in Alleged Defalcations, Ends Life

PALMER, January 17.—Charles W. Chamberlain, manager of the local exchange of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., charged with implication in alleged defalcations of Town Treasurer George E. Clogg, and who was arraigned yesterday, accused of reading stolen town funds, hanged himself in his cell at the police station early today. His body was found suspended by his muffler, which was attached to the top of the cell door, by the janitor of the building when he came on duty for the day.

Mr. Chamberlain had been in the employ of the telephone company 24 years and came here from Concord, N. H., to become exchange manager, 14 years ago. He was arrested Saturday and when arraigned yesterday, pleaded not guilty and was held in $2,000 bonds, which he was unable to furnish.

Since his arrest, he had protested his innocence. He admitted business dealings with Town Treasurer Clogg, but declared he had no knowledge that town funds were involved. The sum of Clogg's alleged defalcations is $26,000, and the same amount was mentioned in the charge against Chamberlain.

Chamberlain was visited last night by his counsel, Attorney W. J. Gould, of Springfield. He said that his client appeared in good spirits. Officer Charles Thomas, on night duty at the station, said that Chamberlain appeared restless and spoke to him several times during the night.

Estimated lower by approximately $9000 than last year's expenditures. The amount of $67,551 is asked, against a total expenditure of $76,022.23. In the matter of groceries and provisions, the superintendent's figures show that he can save $2400, while a saving of $4400 will be made on the purchase of medicines and hospital supplies. For household supplies last year $11,254.79 was expended and this year only $6264 is asked, or a reduction of $5000. One item that shows an appreciable increase is that for a clerk, which jumps from $2640 to $3000.

The estimate for the moth department, which is $3367, is about $450 lower than the sum expended last year. A saving of $300 is shown in the item of department equipment.

The senders department last year expended $705 and this year asks for $300; the wire department last year expended $4437.62 and this year asks for $4564.79; the messengers department last year spent $1930 and asks this year for $1955; the expenditures for city hall in 1921 amounted to $31,698 and for this year $32,092.61 is asked.

The estimate for the city clerk totals $23,400 against an expenditure last year of $11,514. For typewriters, $200 is asked, while the salary item of $10,500 is an increase of $1097.62 over the amount spent last year.

State aid asks for $33,200, against an expenditure of $92,781, while the assessors estimate it will require $22,555 to run their department this year, compared with expenditures of $21,395.28 last year. For printing and binding tax books, $2400 is asked and the item of salary for chief clerk and secretary is raised from $1362 to $2415.

The license commission's estimate of $5700 is approximately $165 more than last year.

The park department has submitted an estimate of $27,780 against expenditure last year of $61,226. Also, the park board, through its chairman, Clarence M. Wood, has requested in a letter to Mayor George H. Brown, that an immediate appropriation of $15,000 be made in order that the department may begin at once to repair the damage caused to trees by the rather recent storm.

Permanent improvements on the North and South commons, Shedd park, Fort Hill park, Washington park, Lincoln park and the Varnum square, which last year amounted to $13,300 and for further permanent improvements this year, $16,500 is asked. Auditorium recreation is a new item, amounting to $1500, and special tax police will cost, it is estimated, $240. Salaries for play ground supervisors are increased from $343.90 to $5000.

It is believed that most of the other city departments will have their estimates ready tomorrow. They then will be bound in book form by the city auditor and a copy submitted to the mayor, members of the budget and audit commission and members of the city council.

The procedure then will originate with the budget and audit commission, which will go over the estimates most thoroughly and submit them to the mayor. He, as a separate unit, will again go over them and eventually submit them to the city council.

The council is the last word on the estimate and has the power to decrease them or allow them to remain at the figures presented. The charter does not allow the council to increase the budget in any particular.

Most Brilliant Scene in Years

Far more has been seen since the days before the war.

Now uniforms were worn by the troops on parade, there were touches of color everywhere and the shining silvery helmets, the glittering sword blades and bayonets combined to complete a brilliant spectacle at the railway station, which was bedecked with the Stars and Stripes and the Italian tricolor.

General Allen was met at the station by Richard Washburn Child, the American ambassador and Gen. Diaz, who recently returned from America. King Victor Emmanuel was represented by an aide.

Gen. Allen reviewed the guard of honor and complimented the commander on the smart appearance of his grenadiers.

After the formalities, Gen. Allen was driven to his hotel through lines of troops, while the American infantrymen marched away through double lines of Italian soldiers along the avenue to their barracks. The Royal Piedmont Lancers and mounted carabinieri escorted the Americans along the line of march, amid hearty cheers and shouts of "Vivo America" from the thickly packed crowds. Newspaper men were allowed today with glowing accounts of the deeds done by the American army during the great war, recalling the comradeship which existed between the Italians and Americans during the struggle.
